Fine Imposed In Action On Sunday Sales

Drugstore Manager Ruled 'Guilty' In First Of Test Cases

Ruling in the first of a dozen cases before his court in which East Liverpool merchants are accused of violating the Ohio "blue law" statue by conducting business on Sunday, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today returned a finding of "guilty" against William O'Neil, manager of the People's Drugstore on E. 5th St.

The court imposed a fine of $25 and costs on O'Neil, who was named in an affidavit signed by Ernest Fannin of Park Way, manager of the new Hills Department Store at St. Clair Plaza in Calcutta.

Bernard Fineman, who represented O'Neil in conjunction with his law partner, George Aronson, pointed out afterward that the defense has three days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Although the case required nearly an hour, only a few minutes were devoted to prosecution testimony and cross-examination by the defense. Most of the time was consumed in the closing argument of the defense and the court's opinion, along with a brief argument by Richard J. Clark, assistant solicitor, who appeared for the prosecution.

The case turned primarily on the question of whether or not the store had sold an item which is a "necessity" under Ohio law.

Fannin and Howard Spoon, also of Park Way and supervisor of the Hills store, testified that Fannin purchased a 98-cent yellow bath towel at People's on Sunday, Oct. 17.

Judge Chertoff conceded the defense contention that state law allows operation of a drugstore on Sunday, so long as it limits its sales to pharmaceutical items. The court ruled that the towel could not be construed as a "necessity."

Part of the judge's ruling was used to lecture downtown merchants and the Hills management for their "feud" over enforcement of the Sunday closing law. Before the charges were filed against the downtown businessmen, they had filed charges against Hills personnel in a county court at East Palestine.

The judge commented in part: "The court feels this way: We have reached a silly impasse. Where these cross-affidavits are going to lead, I don't know. But you are going to reach a point where it will be silly."

"This is the law and as long

Kennedy's Stock Soars In Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vagaries of politics in Tuesday's elections apparently cast some Democrats for future starring roles in their party's affairs.

The loss of the New York City mayor's office to Republican John V. Lindsay leaves Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., as the sole statewide Democratic officeholder of national significance.

Kennedy, who has criticized President Johnson's failure to put more emphasis on political-economic factors in Viet Nam and who has prodded the President on the nuclear proliferation issue, inherits the job of picking up the pieces of the Democratic organization in the biggest electoral vote state.

A year ago the brother of the late President John F. Kennedy was being assailed by many as a carpetbagger when he ran for the Senate in New York. Now he is top man by virtue of presidentially endorsed Abraham D. Beame's failure to win in the race for mayor.

The only individual with anything like a comparable mandate was Frank D. O'Connor, who won the presidency of the City Council by polling 200,000 more votes than Lindsay.

This automatically projected O'Connor into the party's contest next year for a candidate to oppose GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's bid for re-election. But his council presidency hardly added up to a vehicle of statewide power.

While Kennedy worked for Beame after his nomination, the New York senator was extremely careful to avoid taking sides in primary contests. He wouldn't shake hands with or pose for photographs with any candidate who had primary opposition. He thus identified himself publicly as a nonfactional party man.

Even if the White House is less than enthusiastic about promoting the Kennedy political fortunes it seems likely to have to deal with the senator in preparation for Johnson's expected bid for a second elective term in 1968. Kennedy maintains close relations with John Burns, Democratic state chairman, who is expected to stay on.

Across the river in New Jersey, Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes served notice by his record-breaking landslide re-election that he may have to be taken into account in future presidential speculation. With a Democratic - controlled state Legislature, Hughes has indicated he is going to try to give New Jersey a taste of the "great society" on a state level.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — "She didn't seem like a girl at all."

When U.S. Marines said this of Dickey Chapelle, they meant it as a sincere compliment.

The American photographer-correspondent, a veteran of three wars, gave her life for her profession early today in the same way she had lived it, asking no privileges because she was a woman alone in a man's world.

Miss Chapelle, 47, died on the floor of a helicopter as it was taking her to a field hospital. She had been wounded in the neck when a mine booby trap exploded among Marines she was with on an operation 64 miles south of Da Nang.

Four Marines also were wounded by the mine.

Miss Chapelle was the first newswoman and the third member of the press killed in the Viet Nam war.

A corps commander in the central highlands said, "She never asked the slightest concession because of her sex."

Wednesday she bet Associated Press photographer Henri Huet a dime that the Marine unit she was with would be fired on before his. She lost by half an hour when Huet's outfit was pinned down for a time by sniper fire.

Communist Party Trial Gets Started

Eight Prosecution Witnesses Slated To Give Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States opens its case against the Communist party today before 12 jurors who swear they've never heard, said or read a bad word about it.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Joseph Lowther was prepared to call upon a list of eight prosecution witnesses — including at least one who will testify he made himself available to the party to register with the government as required by law.

The absence of such testimony in the party's December 1962 trial cost the government a victory. The U.S. Court of Appeals, reversing the conviction and $120,000 fine, said the government had to prove such a volunteer was available.

The party is charged with failing to register with the government as a Soviet agent and could face a meximum fine of $230,000.

Lowther read the names of his witnesses to the prospective jurors Wednesday. He later identified all but one — Herbert Oscar Marriott — leading to speculation that Marriott is the "willing volunteer" the government needs to close the loophole that spelled defeat in the Court of Appeals.

When the panel of 37 prospective jurors was ushered in — with government workers already eliminated by general agreement — Judge William B. Jones posed some 30 questions to the group.

Those who stood in response were summoned to the bench for a private discussion with Jones and the opposing lawyers, Lowther for the government and Joseph Forer and John J. Abt for the Communists.

When Jones, 58 — who once played football at Notre Dame under legendary Coach Knute Rockne — asked if anyone had heard about the case, only one woman said she had.

Argentine Craft Reported Missing In Central America

PANAMA (AP)—A score of U.S. and Nicaraguan air force planes searched today for an Argentine air force transport missing in Central America with 69 cadets and crewmen aboard.

The DC4 disappeared Wednesday morning after reporting an engine on fire. En route to the United States via El Salvador and Mexico, it was 75 miles from Puerto Limon, on Costa Rica's Atlantic coast, at the time.

Bad weather made the search difficult. Planes flying the route of the missing transport said visibility was only 500 feet in some places.

The plane vanished between the Canal Zone and El Salvador.

U.S. planes were to continue the search today. One American plane braved bad weather Wednesday night to fly on the lookout for flares. Six U.S. Air Force planes searched in vain during daylight Wednesday.

The transport was one of two Argentine aircraft on a training flight. They took off early Wednesday from Panama for San Salvador, capital of El Salvador. They were to refuel there before continuing to Mexico and the United States.

The other plane, with cadet commander Brig. Benigno H. Andrada aboard, arrived safely.

The two planes had landed in the Canal Zone Tuesday from Lima, Peru.

36 Refugees Missing In Boat Mishap

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The Mexican navy searched today for 36 Cuban refugees feared drowned off the Mexican coast after their fishing smack cracked up on the reefs.

As hope of finding them alive dwindled, the Cuban government's order to halt the exodus of small boats from Cuba to Florida was in effect.

The Ministry of the Interior said the action — effective at noon Wednesday — was taken due to bad weather and an imminent agreement between the United States and Cuba for an orderly airlift of refugees.

U.S. Coast Guard cutters braved 28-foot swells in the Florida Straits to search for two refugee boats long overdue at Key West from Camarioca, the port emigrants must use.

The straits, which separate Cuba from Florida, were dotted with empty boats left behind when the Coast Guard transferred refugees to its cutters.

The Mexican navy searched for the 36 off the northeast tip of the Yucatan Peninsula, where their fishing smack, Jose Marti, struck reefs. The navy said nine survivors were rescued, including four women, and six bodies were recovered.

Mexican officials said the Jose Marti left Cuba Oct. 25 and apparently was trying to reach Isla Mujeres. It sank Tuesday.

U.S. Bomber Downed

American Force Ambushes Reds; 'Several' Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen mopping up around Plei Me ambushed a Viet Cong force near the Cambodian border Wednesday night and believed they killed several of the enemy, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

In the air war, another U.S. fighter - bomber was lost over North Viet Nam and the pilot was presumed killed. U.S. B52 bombers from Guam pounded a Communist storage area 30 miles northwest of Saigon for the third successive day.

An American newswoman, photographer - correspondent Dickey Chapelle, 47, was killed by mine booby trap during a U.S. Marine patrol 64 miles south of Da Nang. She was the first newswoman and the third member of the press killed in the Viet Nam war.

About 2,000 Americans and Vietnamese were taking part in the sweep Miss Chapelle was covering, but no major contact with the enemy was reported.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division ambushed the Viet Cong 18 miles west of the Special Forces camp at Plei Me, which the Viet Cong besieged all last month.

Two rifle platoons—about 80 men—sprang the ambush only 3 miles from the Cambodian border. The fighting lasted three hours, and the Americans suffered light casualties, the spokesman said.

Other 1st Cavalry units sweeping the area killed four Viet Cong and found 37 enemy bodies, believd to have been killed by U.S. air attacks during the siege of Plei Me.

In the Mekong Delta, the Viet Cong penetrated an outpost 45 miles southwest of Saigon and inflicted moderate casualties on a force of about 150 South Vietnamese rangers, the spokesman said.

Probers Of Klan Get 'Impatient'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities are beginning to show some impatience with the string of refusals to answer that they are getting from Ku Klux Klan leaders.

"Frankly, I don't think you look very good to the American people coming here and taking the Fifth," Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., told Charles Bartlett of Jonesboro, Ga., Wednesday.

Bartlett, 38, a bulldozer operator, was identified as the grand klorogo, or inner guard, of the Georgia Klan and a Klan instructor in the use of dynamite bombs, karate, judo and guerrilla warfare. Like practically all the other Klan witnesses, Bartlett declined to answer any questions on Fifth Amendment and other grounds.

Pool told Bartlett, "I certainly think if you consider yourself a good American citizen, you would cooperate with this committee." He invited Bartlett to make some kind of statement.

A dead silence ensued, and Pool added, "I guess he has none."

Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., also told Bartlett, "He who shows contempt for this committee is in fact showing contempt for the American people."

To another witness, Daniel Bruce, also identified as an instructor in the Klan dynamite school; Buchanan complained that he was unwilling to admit he was a klansman, "yet you boldly and rather brazenly wear this Klan pin," a small triangular lapel pin with the initials KKK intertwined on it.

Four-Year Bill Signed By President

Measure Carries $4 Billion Price Tag For Next Year

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson announced plans today for "the most thorough study ever conducted" of federal farm programs after signing into law a four-year omnibus agriculture bill affecting most major commodities.

Johnson just got under the wire in signing the measure — one of the major bills of the 1965 Congress and one carrying an estimated $4-billion price tag for the 1966 crop year.

The President's action was announced Wednesday night by the Texas White House shortly after 11 p.m. Had he waited until after midnight, the legislation would have died by pocket veto.

Issuing a 1,500-word statement on his action, Johnson hailed the new law as establishing "a farm policy geared to growth" and one opening a new chapter "in the miraculous story of American farming."

The chief executive said the legislation, with major innovations affecting wheat and cotton growers and dairy farmers, marks a milestone.

"Yet," he said, "all of this can be — and should be — only a beginning."

Then he announced establishment of a National Advisory Commission on Food and Fiber which will "construct the most thorough study ever conducted of the effects of our agricultural policies on the performance of our economy and on our foreign relations."

The commission, to be headed by Dean Sherwood Berg of the school of agriculture at the University of Minnesota, will report to the President within 18 months.

Shoub, Eaton Will Aid With Housing Plan

Membership of the five-member board of the new Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority was rounded out today when Mayor George E. Willshaw announced the appointment of Aaron L. Eaton of 435 Vine St. and William J. Shoub of 701 Broadway, Wellsville.

Eaton retired in 1961 after 30 years with the former Treadwell Construction Co. at Midland, but still serves as an industrial consultant. His term is for five years.

Shoub, a former Wellsville mayor, is general manager of the W. C. Bunting Co.'s plant in East End. His term is for one year.

Shoub served as mayor at Wellsville four terms. He is a member of the Greater Wellsville Association and is active in the Columbiana County Mental Health Association.

The three other members of the board were appointed earlier under procedure set up when the State Housing Board at Columbus voted Oct. 12 to grant a petition for creation of the housing authority.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities are beginning to show some impatience with the string of refusals to answer that they are getting from Ku Klux Klan leaders.

"Frankly, I don't think you look very good to the American people coming here and taking the Fifth," Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., told Charles Bartlett of Jonesboro, Ga., Wednesday.

Bartlett, 38, a bulldozer operator, was identified as the grand klorogo, or inner guard, of the Georgia Klan and a Klan instructor in the use of dynamite bombs, karate, judo and guerrilla warfare. Like practically all the other Klan witnesses, Bartlett declined to answer any questions on Fifth Amendment and other grounds.

Pool told Bartlett, "I certainly think if you consider yourself a good American citizen, you would cooperate with this committee." He invited Bartlett to make some kind of statement.

A dead silence ensued, and Pool added, "I guess he has none."

Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., also told Bartlett, "He who shows contempt for this committee is in fact showing contempt for the American people."

To another witness, Daniel Bruce, also identified as an instructor in the Klan dynamite school; Buchanan complained that he was unwilling to admit he was a klansman, "yet you boldly and rather brazenly wear this Klan pin," a small triangular lapel pin with the initials KKK intertwined on it.

Results in other divisions are: Medical and dental, $318, 85 per cent of the goal; education, $886, or 75 per cent; public service, $527, or 106 per cent; real estate and insurance, $135, or 117 per cent; government, $206, or 64 per cent; Ohioville residential, $38, or 63 per cent, and Meadowbrook, $40.85, or 48 per cent.

The campaign figures include $2,065 in county credit, contributions and pledges of county-wide businesses.

Driver 'Poor' After 8-Hour Crash Ordeal

A 42-year-old Wellsville area motorist who lay injured in his wrecked car in a ravine near Hanoverton for eight hours Tuesday night and Wednesday was in "poor" condition today at Salem Central Clinic.

Robert T. Kiddey of Wellsville R. D. 1, a construction firm worker, suffered bruises and abrasions of the forehead, chest bruises, possible rib fractures, sprains of the neck, back and right hip and abrasions of the arm and knee.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Kiddey was headed west on Route 30 about a mile east of Hanoverton when his car veered off the highway around 9:45.

Kiddey said he swerved to avoid two dogs which ran in front of his 1963 hardtop.

The car bounced and rolled some 200 feet down into the ravine, with Kiddey apparently knocked unconscious for some time.

He told hospital authorities he flicked his lights off and on as he periodically regained consciousness in an effort to attract attention of passing motorists.

Finally, he pulled himself from the wrecked auto and managed to crawl to a nearby home where he obtained help and was taken to the hospital about 6 a. m.

South Koreans' Artillery Shots Killed 6 Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A South Korean artillery unit fired the rounds last week that killed six U.S. paratroopers, an informed source said today.

The Americans were members of the 101st Airborne Division who were taking part in an operation near the port city of Qui Nhon, 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

A U.S. military spokesman had said that the victims were members of a squad that inadvertently moved into the line of fire. U.S. military sources had assumed that the artillery rounds were fired by either American or South Vietnamese government units.

Wheeling Steel Announces New Policy On Prices

WHEELING (AP) — The Wheeling Steel Corp. announced Wednesday a new pricing policy which it said will assure customers of no increase in prices for at least six months from the time of an order.

Wheeling said the price will be set at the time an order is placed, a departure from the customary practice by steel firms of applying the price at time of shipment.

Robert M. Morris, president, said the old policy "meant that a customer did not, in fact, have a firm price. Hence he did not know the cost of his purchase until the steel was shipped and invoiced."

Morris added that "it is doubtful whether steel plays the major role in our economy that so many have indicated, but it is an important cost factor and this kind of action could be a stabiliizng influence in the current steel price situation."

The new policy also applies to Wheeling's subsidiary, the Wheeling Corrugating Co.

Morris said that under the new policy a customer will be assured that he will not pay any higher "extra" price on steel he has ordered up to six months after the order is accepted.

Should a customer specify a date beyond the six months, the price charged will be the price at date of shipment.

Morris said that any price reductions will be applicable immediately.

Election Eyed By Southern Local Board

SALINEVILLE — The possibility of holding a special election on one or two school levy proposals which voters turned down in Tuesday's balloting will be discussed at a meeting of the Southern Local School District Board of Education Monday night.

Supt. Jack Baker said the loss of funds from the 1.8-mill levy which was a renewal proposal would seriously affect the district's finances. The levy brings in about $18,000 for the general fund.

Voters turned down the proposed renewal and a proposed new 3-mill levy for teachers salaries.

Baker said the district already is operating at a minimum level financially and he cannot detail what operations would be trimmed without the levy's income.

He said a proposal will be submitted to the board for a special election before Jan. 1 in order to collect the funds next year on the tax duplicates.

Should an election be held after Jan. 1, and the levy or levies approved, the revenue could not be collected in time for next year's budget.

Wheeling Steel Announces New Policy On Prices

WHEELING (AP) — The Wheeling Steel Corp. announced Wednesday a new pricing policy which it said will assure customers of no increase in prices for at least six months from the time of an order.

Wheeling said the price will be set at the time an order is placed, a departure from the customary practice by steel firms of applying the price at time of shipment.

Robert M. Morris, president, said the old policy "meant that a customer did not, in fact, have a firm price. Hence he did not know the cost of his purchase until the steel was shipped and invoiced."

Morris added that "it is doubtful whether steel plays the major role in our economy that so many have indicated, but it is an important cost factor and this kind of action could be a stabiliizng influence in the current steel price situation."

The new policy also applies to Wheeling's subsidiary, the Wheeling Corrugating Co.

Morris said that under the new policy a customer will be assured that he will not pay any higher "extra" price on steel he has ordered up to six months after the order is accepted.

Should a customer specify a date beyond the six months, the price charged will be the price at date of shipment.

Morris said that any price reductions will be applicable immediately.

Election Eyed By Southern Local Board

SALINEVILLE — The possibility of holding a special election on one or two school levy proposals which voters turned down in Tuesday's balloting will be discussed at a meeting of the Southern Local School District Board of Education Monday night.

Supt. Jack Baker said the loss of funds from the 1.8-mill levy which was a renewal proposal would seriously affect the district's finances. The levy brings in about $18,000 for the general fund.

Voters turned down the proposed renewal and a proposed new 3-mill levy for teachers salaries.

Baker said the district already is operating at a minimum level financially and he cannot detail what operations would be trimmed without the levy's income.

He said a proposal will be submitted to the board for a special election before Jan. 1 in order to collect the funds next year on the tax duplicates.

Should an election be held after Jan. 1, and the levy or levies approved, the revenue could not be collected in time for next year's budget.

Splinters In The Wind

Political soothsayers were matching for straws in the wind in Tuesday's election.

The straws turned out to be splinters.

They saw tell-tale splintering in political hot spots like Cleveland and New York — cities whose massed voters can sway the election results of whole states in national elections.

They took note of a continuing deterioration of traditional alignments.

They were aware of a proliferation of political groups whose tenuous leadership must be coaxed and cozened to stand together long enough to form a campaign coalition.

They saw trouble ahead as election winners struggled to keep campaign coalitions together for the purpose of governing.

How will John V. Lindsay, mayor-elect of New York City, pin down popular support for his administration? His election was aided by the spoiler candidacy of William F. Buckley Jr., who not only took votes away from the Democratic candidate, Abraham D. Beame, but helped to shatter familiar loyalties for thousands of New York City Democrats who failed to support Beame.

Lindsay, running as an independent with faint Republican leanings, was a white Anglo-Saxon Protestant running against a deeply respected Jewish candidate who wanted to be the city's first Jewish mayor. Buckley is a Catholic.

Yet, Lindsay won as a reform candidate, Beame lost as a stand-patter, Buckley was rebuked as a reactionary. Lindsay's success is another crushing defeat for both stand-patters and the far right wing in U.S. politics.

Where is the two-party system in Cleveland? The one candidate who said he wanted to restore it was snowed under.

The significant voter division in Cleveland was not by parties but by voters both white and Negro who split over the existing administration's handling of the civil rights issue.

A tremendously strong showing by an attractive Negro candidate at the expense of Mayor Locher may have to be resolved in a recount.

It is ever more apparent that the two-party pattern in politics now lingers only in wards and precincts. It does not prevail in upper levels of political competition. Independence of party has become a prime political asset.

Political scientists are not sure where this is leading, but they can have no doubt the political juggernaut is moving at top speed, splintering the electorate into more pieces than can be kept track of from the grandstand where most of us watch competitive politics.

What happened a year ago in the presidential election was only the beginning.

Hold The Applause

It hasn't taken long for orbital flights to become commonplace, but it will be a long time before variations on the basic theme become commonplace.

For example, consider the variation on space-walking being talked about for the forthcoming simultaneous orbital flights of Gemini 6 and Gemini 7.

The astronauts are talking about the possibility of walking in space from one to the other. This assumes they can be maneuvered precisely enough to bring them into juxtaposition in space.

If that could be done and everything went well, an astronaut from Gemini 6 would go into space and "walk" over to Gemini 7. It is to be hoped for the sake of the comedians who have worn out the joke that the strolling astronaut would rap on the window so one of the astronauts inside could sing out, "Who's there?"

But joking aside, what intrigues us is the variation that will come along one of these years when an astronaut goes "walking" in space without that tether gripped tightly in his hand.

That will be the equivalent of the triple somersault off the high perch with no net below. It would be even more than that, because an astronaut "walking" in space without a tether would be a soul lost in infinity, for all practical purposes. One wrong move and the poor fellow would be a star.

Let's hold the applause.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

Since our last discussion about the rigors of winter, the paper had an article about forecasting cold and snow by fuzz on woolly bear caterpillars, the thickness of goose bones, the amount of hair on a horse, the height of hornet nests from the ground and other old standbys.

So how have you been finding goose bones, caterpillars and hornet nests lately?

Our family just got through gorging itself on a couple of geese so we could inspect the skeletons, but our family is short of experience on this sort of thing. None of us could tell a thick goose bone if we saw one.

The first goose we ate was big and had heavy bones. The second one was smaller and had thinner bones, which evidently means this is either going to be a tough winter or a mild one.

THE SAME with the brown bands in the middle of the black woolly bear caterpillars. They were about as divided as members of the Republican party. One caterpillar had a wide band, the other a not-so-wide band.

The caterpillars seemed to disagree so much they never even spoke to each other. At least not while we were around.

Hornets are hard to come by, but we have lots of wasps and always use them as stand-ins for hornets when it comes to weather forecasting.

Our wasps invariably predict a bad winter with deep snow because they always build their little clay homes in the attic of our house, on the underside of the eaves, or on window frames, high above any possible snow level.

Most wildlife methods of foretelling the winter come from farm-type almanacs, and it is amazing how they have missed the best tell-tale weather signs all these years.

For instance, one of the most dependable weather indicators of mother nature is leaves, when they fall from trees.

IF LEAVES are fairly flat when they fall off the trees and land on the ground, it means a mild winter. If the winter is going to be bad, the leaves are all curled up to keep them warm and protect them from snow. Ask any oldtimer who knows anything about this.

Another good test is to pull needles from evergreens. If the needles come loose easily it means a mild winter because the needles are not expecting to have to cling for dear life in the months ahead.

But if evergreen needles are hard to pull out, watch out. They are ready for frigid temperatures, gales and blizzards.

You can have woolly bear caterpillars with their cummerbunds. Give me red earthworms any day. All you have to do is take a shovel and dig down in the ground to see how deep the earthworms have gone.

Obviously, if the worms are near the surface, it will be a good winter. They can tell. If you have to dig deep, watch out, because the ground is going to freeze way down. Natch.

THE THICKNESS of the bark on a maple tree is also a reliable sign. The trees are ready for trouble if the bark is thick. But if it is thin, don't bother to get your longjohns out of the moth balls.

With shells on acorns, it is just the opposite. Nature has a way of compensating, you know. Thin shells on acorns mean a hard winter, thick shells mean a soft winter.

This is so squirrels can eat them easier if the winter is bad and can take more time to gnaw through heavy shells if the winter is mild. This is the way nature protects squirrels from starvation in a cold snowy winter.

This may explain why acorns are nutty and squirrels are squirrelly.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

What's Nonpartisan?

By Truman Twill

Now that all the winners have been patted on the back and the losers in the face, a few thoughts about politics are in order for everybody who votes.

One thing that needs to be cleared up is nonsense about nonpartisanship.

Like the great auk, nonpartisanship doesn't exist.

Yet, people talk about it as if they encounter it every day.

What they mean is that they encounter bipartisanship, which does exist and has a vital function.

Bipartisanship means seeing both sides in a public issue and understanding each for what its worth.

Nonpartisanship would mean seeing neither side and making no attempt to choose between one thing and another.

It would mean being neutral — and that's silly.

No one is neutral.

The only neutral thing conceivable is a blank slate that never has been written on and never erased.

Elsewhere on earth, everything is partisan. It leans one way or the other. It favors one side or the other.

When people have opinions, they divide two ways or more. They are bipartisan, tripartisan, or multipartisan.

Some can see no merit in any opinion but their own. Others have the ability to see merit in both sides and to choose on that basis.

This does not mean they can see two sides in questions of honesty vs. thievery, sin vs. virtue, honor vs. disgrace etc. It means they can understand what partisans are talking about in questions of public policy and procedure.

This is what it means to be bipartisan. It is the quintessence of political sophistication. And what does being bipartisan do to the two-party system, which is the bulwark of American freedom, along with blueberry pie, motherhood and freedom of speech?

It keeps the two-party system on its toes when bidding for the support of bipartisan voters. It gives fits to political bosses who would like to be able to count the votes before the ballots are cast.

It marks the Republic's giant strides since ignorant masses were herded to the polls to make marks under party symbols at the top of the ballot.

It lets the air out of the claim that the outcome of the voting is predictable on the basis of party registration.

With a little bit of luck, bipartisanship can even save the two-party system.

Nonpartisanship?

It's too silly to think about.

Have We Slipped Up Somewhere?

Steel Words Battle Looms

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH

Among the mounds of fettuccine in old Alfredo's near the Tiber, so far from the Monongahela River, sat a husky silver-haired pipe-smoking chap.

For him it was no Roman holiday. It was ex-steel union president Dave McDonald — and he sat all alone. No retinue. No recognition. No reporters during that dinner hour last Oct. 12.

Victor Riesel

It was some minor government committee which took him so far from home, no longer in this old iron city. He has sold his house and has settled down to write a book along the fairway in Palm Springs. Though the headlines of decades are his no longer, he is unknowingly making some startling headlines of the future. For his loss is being mourned by the leaders of the steel industry and their hard-hitting spokesman, U.S. Steel's Executive Vice-President R. Conrad Cooper, is saying so with triphammer style, impact and rapidity.

IN RECENT WEEKS, "Coop," a plunging fullback type chap, has made three speeches in which he has attacked the new leadership of the United Steelworkers. He has referred to the union as part of what he charges is the "obese body of labor union power." This he says is in need of legislative surgery.

All of which is "Coop's" way of saying he wants Congress to cut down labor's ability to strike and halt national industries.

Then, to make certain that the steel union's new president, "Abe" Abel, would never vote him the man of the year, Cooper praised Dave McDonald's "statesmanship."

"All of you know what happened internally in the union," Cooper has been saying. "While arriving at a position of true labor statesmanship, where the economic realities of the industry were faced and met responsibly, Dave McDonald exposed his political flanks. What happened was a palace guard revolt which emerged out of the blue in Nov. 1964 — the precise time when we were expecting to negotiate new labor agreements."

IT SHOULD be recalled that Cooper has been speaking for most of the steel industry. It was he who led the four-man teams into the White House just before Labor Day when President Johnson threw away the key and put both sides on hamburger rations.

Cooper speaks for the 10 major basic steel companies. Rarely has so prominent an industrialist whacked one labor leader while praising the opposition. Cooper has been hitting Abel with:

"When the smoke cleared away it could be said that Abel slew McDonald and raised Cain. Cain is the baby we were trying to head-shrink down to size — and this was no small undertaking."

Then in each speech Cooper assails at what he terms were excessive demands of the Abel administration. Bitterness drenches the talks. It also permeates the letters he sent to Secretary of Labor Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce Connor after the White House sessions.

IN EFFECT, he told Wirtz and Connor that the union had tarred and feathered the steel industry.

Nor does Cooper confine himself to the steel union. There are "massive union forces," says he, and he charges that these are "all too often used" and threaten the free enterprise system.

Cooper's hitting the hustings can be variously interpreted. For example, he is "expendable" in the battle on the labor front. He now is 62 and must retire at 65 from his vice-presidency at U.S. Steel.

Since he will reach 65 on June 15, 1968, a few months before the expiration of the famous contracts now being signed, he will not be in the fight.

Therefore, he will not again face Abel across the bargaining table.

EVEN IF HE DID NOT retire, neither he nor anyone else might ever again be speaking for the entire industry. There may be no industry-wide bargaining in the future. The big steel union is re-thinking the policy developed by Dave McDonald — who brought the union team together with the steel industry's four-man squad.

This would pit each big company alone against the United Steelworkers.

There will be ten crises instead of one. But there is no doubt that this will give the union greater bargaining strength, and then Abe Abel will be able to deliver more to his men than did wandering Dave McDonald.

It's no surprise, then, that "Coop" is steel's official angry man. And that he is preparing to raise Cain with Abel.

So, when the headlines finally break, remember this is where it all began.

Issues For 1966

By David Lawrence

Congressional Elections Studied

Just about a year from now there will be another election — far more significant than any of the local contests decided this week. It will be national in scope so far as the House of Representatives is concerned, as candidates for every seat will have to go before the voters. While only one-third of the Senate members face next year an expiration of their six-year terms, several of the senators who are up for re-election come from some of the larger states.

David Lawrence

If the Democratic majority, which is in excess of two-thirds in both houses now, should be substantially diminished and the Republicans take control of either one or both houses, this would be regarded as a repudiation of the Johnson administration by the voters.

Already the issues are shaping up for next year's election. The Congress, which adjourned a few weeks ago, dealt with some of the most important questions that have come before the national legislative body in all its history. Many laws were passed the full effects of which will not become clear to the voters until next year's congressional campaign.

The central factor, however, on which the judgment of the voters will turn is the economic condition of the country as a whole. Up to now unemployment has been referred to as minimal and prosperity has been the boast of the Democratic politicians but the truth is that there are many signs of economic instability and social discontent.

FOR ONE THING, the big cities are in turmoil over racial questions as they relate to alleged "imbalance" in the public schools. The merits of the civil rights issue itself have been to a large extent brushed aside in the bitterness of feeling that has emerged over the handling of public school enrollment. Federal intrusion, or the threat of control of the school systems, is either through the withholding of public funds producing antagonism to the Johnson administration among many voters who are normally Democratic.

It's on economic issues, however, that the 1966 congressional campaign will be fought. The cost of living is rising. Within the next year it is expected that interest rates will be increased, which in turn will have an effect on business operations. Fundamental changes may be expected as the long period of what has been called "stability" approaches its climax.

The principal cause of economic worry arises out of the wage-and-price problem.

THE JOHNSON administration has been using its power and influence to hold down prices but it has done little to prevent wage rates from being uniformly applied in an industry. Yet rising expenses for labor are steadily hurting the smaller companies rather than the big ones. The usual result is that the marginal producers are forced out of business or into mergers with their larger competitors, and this bring unemployment.

Some of the stimulants which the administration has used will have run their course by next November. Thus, the removal of excise taxes, which was hailed as a big gain for the consumer, will not have brought about a reduction in prices, as the purchaser of many articles will be paying just as much as, if not more than, he did when excise taxes were added.

Similarly, although cuts in federal income taxes have been publicized as a stimulant to business, there has been a substantial increase in state and local taxes. So the tax burden is not being materially reduced.

The congressional campaign indeed will be a test of administration strength. The 1966 contest promises to be almost as spectacular as a presidential campaign.

I am writing about the demonstrations held by college students against our troops in Viet Nam.

I think these demonstrators and draft card burners are acting very immature. They should be proud to fight for our country. I am a girl and I'm only 15 years old, but if I was a young man of age I'd be proud, very proud, and willing to fight for the U.S.

These demonstrators don't know how good they have it. What if everyone acted like them? What kind of country would we have? We have a beautiful, free country right now, but how long would it stay free if everybody was against fighting for it?

Do these college students really want an education or are they just afraid of being drafted?

I don't know if any of the demonstrators read this newspaper, but if they do I hope they see this letter and think about it! Is all of this rebelling really necessary? Is it really worth it.

Splinters In The Wind

Political soothsayers were matching for straws in the wind in Tuesday's election.

The straws turned out to be splinters.

They saw tell-tale splintering in political hot spots like Cleveland and New York — cities whose massed voters can sway the election results of whole states in national elections.

They took note of a continuing deterioration of traditional alignments.

They were aware of a proliferation of political groups whose tenuous leadership must be coaxed and cozened to stand together long enough to form a campaign coalition.

How will John V. Lindsay, mayor-elect of New York City, pin down popular support for his administration? His election was aided by the spoiler candidacy of William F. Bucklev Jr., who not only took votes away from the Democratic candidate, Abraham D. Beame, but helped to shatter familiar loyalties for thousands of New York City Democrats who failed to support Beame.

Lindsay, running as an independent with faint Republican leanings, was a white Anglo-Saxon Protestant running against a deeply respected Jewish candidate who wanted to be the city's first Jewish mayor. Buckley is a Catholic.

Yet, Lindsay won as a reform candidate, Beame lost as a stand-patter, Buckley was rebuked as a reactionary. Lindsay's success is another crushing defeat for both stand-patters and the far right wing in U.S. politics.

Where is the two-party system in Cleveland? The one candidate who said he wanted to restore it was snowed under.

The significant voter division in Cleveland was not by parties but by voters both white and Negro who split over the existing administration's handling of the civil rights issue.

A tremendously strong showing by an attractive Negro candidate at the expense of Mayor Locher may have to be resolved in a recount.

It is ever more apparent that the two-party pattern in politics now lingers only in wards and precincts. It does not prevail in upper levels of political competition. Independence of party has become a prime political asset.

Political scientists are not sure where this is leading, but they can have no doubt the political juggernaut is moving at top speed, splintering the electorate into more pieces than can be kept track of from the grandstand where most of us watch competitive politics.

What happened a year ago in the presidential election was only the beginning.

Hold The Applause

It hasn't taken long for orbital flights to become commonplace, but it will be a long time before variations on the basic theme become commonplace.

For example, consider the variation on space-walking being talked about for the forthcoming simultaneous orbital flights of Gemini 6 and Gemini 7.

The astronauts are talking about the possibility of walking in space from one to the other. This assumes they can be maneuvered precisely enough to bring them into juxtaposition in space.

If that could be done and everything went well, an astronaut from Gemini 6 would go into space and "walk" over to Gemini 7. It is to be hoped for the sake of the comedians who have worn out the joke that the strolling astronaut would rap on the window so one of the astronauts inside could sing out, "Who's there?"

But joking aside, what intrigues us is the variation that will come along one of these years when an astronaut goes "walking" in space without that tether gripped tightly in his hand.

That will be the equivalent of the triple somersault off the high perch with no net below. It would be even more than that, because an astronaut "walking" in space without a tether would be a soul lost in infinity, for all practical purposes. One wrong move and the poor fellow would be a star.

Let's hold the applause.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

Since our last discussion about the rigors of winter, the paper had an article about forecasting cold and snow by fuzz on woolly bear caterpillars, the thickness of goose bones, the amount of hair on a horse, the height of hornet nests from the ground and other old standbys.

So how have you been finding goose bones, caterpillars and hornet nests lately?

Our family just got through gorging itself on a couple of geese so we could inspect the skeletons, but our family is short of experience on this sort of thing. None of us could tell a thick goose bone if we saw one.

The first goose we ate was big and had heavy bones. The second one was smaller and had thinner bones, which evidently means this is either going to be a tough winter or a mild one.

THE SAME with the brown bands in the middle of the black woolly bear caterpillars. They were about as divided as members of the Republican party. One caterpillar had a wide band, the other a not-so-wide band.

The caterpillars seemed to disagree so much they never even spoke to each other. At least not while we were around.

Hornets are hard to come by, but we have lots of wasps and always use them as stand-ins for hornets when it comes to w e a t h e r forecasting.

Our wasps invariably predict a bad winter with deep snow because they always build their little clay homes in the attic of our house, on the underside of the eaves, or on window frames, high above any possible snow level.

Most wildlife methods of foretelling the winter come from farm-type almanacs, and it is amazing how they have missed the best tell-tale weather signs all these years.

For instance, one of the most dependable weather indicators of mother nature is leaves, when they fall from trees.

IF LEAVES are fairly flat when they fall off the trees and land on the ground, it means a mild winter. If the winter is going to be bad, the leaves are all curled up to keep them warm and protect them from snow. Ask any oldtimer who knows anything about this.

Another good test is to pull needles from evergreens. If the needles come loose easily it means a mild winter because the needles are not expecting to have to cling for dear life in the months ahead.

But if evergreen needles are hard to pull out, watch out. They are ready for frigid temperatures, gales and blizzards.

You can have woolly bear caterpillars with their cummerbunds. Give me red earthworms any day. All you have to do is take a shovel and dig down in the ground to see how deep the earthworms have gone.

Obviously, if the worms are near the surface, it will be a good winter. They can tell. If you have to dig deep, watch out, because the ground is going to freeze way down. Natch.

THE THICKNESS of the bark on a maple tree is also a reliable sign. The trees are ready for trouble if the bark is thick. But if it is thin, don't bother to get your longjohns out of the moth balls.

With shells on acorns, it is just the opposite. Nature has a way of compensating, you know. Thin shells on acorns mean a hard winter, thick shells mean a soft winter.

This is so squirrels can eat them easier if the winter is bad and can take more time to gnaw through heavy shells if the winter is mild. This is the way nature protects squirrels from starvation in a cold snowy winter.

This may explain why acorns are nutty and squirrels are squirrelly.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

What's Nonpartisan?

By Truman Twill

Now that all the winners have been patted on the back and the losers in the face, a few thoughts about politics are in order for everybody who votes.

One thing that needs to be cleared up is nonsense about nonpartisanship.

Like the great auk, nonpartisanship doesn't exist.

Yet, people talk about it as if they encounter it every day.

What they mean is that they encounter bipartisanship, which does exist and has a vital function.

Bipartisanship means seeing both sides in a public issue and understanding each for what its worth.

Nonpartisanship would mean seeing neither side and making no attempt to choose between one thing and another.

It would mean being neutral — and that's silly.

No one is neutral.

No one with two brains to rub together can be neutral.

The only neutral thing conceivable is a blank slate that never has been written on and never erased.

Elsewhere on earth, everything is partisan. It leans one way or the other. It favors one side or the other.

When people have opinions, they divide two ways or more. They are bipartisan, tripartisan, or multipartisan.

Some can see no merit in any opinion but their own. Others have the ability to see merit in both sides and to choose on that basis.

This does not mean they can see two sides in questions of honesty vs. thievery, sin vs. virtue, honor vs. disgrace etc. It means they can understand what partisans are talking about in questions of public policy and procedure.

This is what it means to be bipartisan. It is the quintessence of political sophistication. And what does being bipartisan do to the two-party system, which is the bulwark of American freedom, along with blueberry pie, motherhood and freedom of speech?

It keeps the two-party system on its toes when bidding for the support of bipartisan voters. It gives fits to political bosses who would like to be able to count the votes before the ballots are cast.

It marks the Republic's giant strides since ignorant masses were herded to the polls to make marks under party symbols at the top of the ballot.

It lets the air out of the claim that the outcome of the voting is predictable on the basis of party registration.

With a little bit of luck, bipartisanship can even save the two-party system.

Nonpartisanship?

It's too silly to think about.

Have We Slipped Up Somewhere?

Steel Words Battle Looms

By Victor Riesel

PITTSBURGH

Among the mounds of f e t t u c c i n e in old Alfredo's near the Tiber, so far from the Monongahela River, sat a husky silver-haired pipe-smoking chap.

For him it was no Roman holiday. It was ex-steel union president Dave McDonald — and he sat all alone. No retinue. No recognition. No reporters during that dinner hour last Oct. 12.

Victor Riesel

It was some minor government committee which took him so far from home, no longer in this old iron city. He has sold his house and has settled down to write a book along the f a i r w a y in Palm Springs. Though the headlines of decades are his no longer, he is unknowingly making some startling headlines of the future. For his loss is being mourned by the leaders of the steel industry and their hard-hitting spokesman, U.S. Steel's Executive Vice-President R. Conrad Cooper, is saying so with triphammer style, impact and rapidity.

IN RECENT WEEKS, "Coop," a plunging fullback type chap, has made three speeches in which he has attacked the new leadership of the United Steelworkers. He has referred to the union as part of what he charges is the "obese body of labor union power." This he says is in need of legislative surgery.

All of which is "Coop's" way of saying he wants Congress to cut down labor's ability to strike and halt national industries.

Then, to make certain that the steel union's new president, "Abe" Abel, would never vote him the man of the year, Cooper praised Dave McDonald's "statesmanship."

"All of you know what happened internally in the union," Cooper has been saying. "While arriving at a position of true labor statesmanship, where the economic realities of the industry were faced and met responsibly, Dave McDonald exposed his political flanks. What happened was a palace guard revolt which emerged out of the blue in Nov. 1964 — the precise time when we were expecting to negotiate new labor agreements."

IT SHOULD be recalled that Cooper has been speaking for most of the steel industry. It was he who led the four-man teams into the White House just before Labor Day when President Johnson threw away the key and put both sides on hamburger rations.

Cooper speaks for the 10 major basic steel companies. Rarely has so prominent an industrialist whacked one labor leader while praising the opposition. Cooper has been hitting Abel with:

"When the smoke cleared away it could be said that Abel slew McDonald and raised Cain. Cain is the baby we were trying to head-shrink down to size — and this was no small undertaking."

Then in each speech Cooper assails at what he terms were excessive demands of the Abel administration. Bitterness drenches the talks. It also permeates the letters he sent to Secretary of Labor Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce Connor after the White House sessions.

IN EFFECT, he told Wirtz and Connor that the union had tarred and feathered the steel industry.

Nor does Cooper confine himself to the steel union. There are "massive union forces," says he, and he charges that these are "all too often used" and threaten the free enterprise system.

Cooper's hitting the hustings can be variously interpreted. For example, he is "expendable" in the battle on the labor front. He now is 62 and must retire at 65 from his vice-presidency at U.S. Steel.

Since he will reach 65 on June 15, 1968, a few months before the expiration of the famous contracts now being signed, he will not be in the fight.

Therefore, he will not again face Abel across the bargaining table.

EVEN IF HE DID NOT retire, neither he nor anyone else might ever again be speaking for the entire industry. There may be no industry-wide bargaining in the future. The big steel union is re-thinking the policy developed by Dave McDonald — who brought the union team together with the steel industry's four-man squad.

This would pit each big company alone against the United Steelworkers.

There will be ten crises instead of one. But there is no doubt that this will give the union greater bargaining strength, and then Abe Abel will be able to deliver more to his men than did wandering Dave McDonald.

It's no surprise, then, that "Coop" is steel's official angry man. And that he is preparing to raise Cain with Abel.

So, when the h e a d l i n e s finally break, remember this is where it all began.

Issues For 1966

By David Lawrence

Congressional Elections Studied

Just about a year from now there will be another election — far more significant than any of the local contests decided this week. It will be national in scope so far as the House of Representatives is concerned, as candidates for every seat will have to go before the voters. While only one-third of the Senate members face next year an expiration of their six-year terms, several of the senators who are up for re-election come from some of the larger states.

David Lawrence

If the Democratic majority, which is in excess of two-thirds in both houses now, should be substantially diminished and the Republicans take control of either one or both houses, this would be regarded as a repudiation of the Johnson administration by the voters.

Already the issues are shaping up for next year's election. The Congress, which adjourned a few weeks ago, dealt with some of the most important questions that have come before the national legislative body in all its history. Many laws were passed the full effects of which will not become clear to the voters until next year's congressional campaign.

The central factor, however, on which the judgment of the voters will turn is the economic condition of the country as a whole. Up to now unemployment has been referred to as minimal and prosperity has been the boast of the Democratic politicians but the truth is that there are many signs of economic instability and social discontent.

FOR ONE THING, the big cities are in turmoil over racial questions as they relate to alleged "imbalance" in the public schools. The merits of the civil rights issue itself have been to a large extent brushed aside in the bitterness of feeling that has emerged over the handling of public school enrollment. Federal intrusion, or the threat of control of the school systems, is either through the withholding of public funds producing antagonism to the Johnson administration among many voters who are normally Democratic.

It's on economic issues, however, that the 1966 congressional campaign will be fought. The cost of living is rising. Within the next year it is expected that interest rates will be increased, which in turn will have an effect on business operations. Fundamental changes may be expected as the long period of what has been called "stability" approaches its climax.

The principal cause of economic worry arises out of the wage-and-price problem.

THE JOHNSON administration has been using its power and influence to hold down prices but it has done little to prevent wage rates from being uniformly applied in an industry. Yet rising expenses for labor are steadily hurting the smaller companies rather than the big ones. The usual result is that the marginal producers are forced out of business or into mergers with their larger competitors, and this bring unemployment.

Some of the stimulants which the administration has used will have run their course by next November. Thus, the removal of excise taxes, which was hailed as a big gain for the consumer, will not have brought about a reduction in prices, as the purchaser of many articles will be paving just as much as, if not more than, he did when excise taxes were added.

Similarly, although cuts in federal incgm axes have been publicized as a stimulant to business, there has been a substantial increase in state and local taxes. So the tax burden is not being materially reduced.

The congressional campaign indeed will be a test of administration strength. The 1966 contest promises to be almost as spectacular as a presidential campaign.

Southern Ohioans 'Beef Up' Efforts To Get Atomic Site

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—Southern Ohioans, awaiting Friday's tour by an Atomic Energy Commission inspection team, have beefed up their efforts to win the supersweepstakes for the prospective $348 million atom smasher.

A squad of scientists comes to this Pike County area after looking over the two other Ohio sites in the running and another in West Virginia. They visited the Ravenna Arsenal Tuesday, Washington County Wednesday and were in Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., today.

Padding a welcome mat, representative of 13 counties in southern Ohio and northern Kentucky met here Wednesday and cemented plans to raise funds to buy needed land.

Meanwhile, the spot between Marietta and Athens may have fallen out of the race. The AEC team had said after the Ravenna inspection that the site there meets all of the commission requirements; the evaluators made no such comment about the Washington County location.

The nuclear accelerator laboratory, with the accelerator itself to be more than a mile in diameter, by preliminary estimate will require a staff of 2,000 and cost some $660 million a year to operate.

The group that met here, midway between Chillicothe and Portsmouth, mapped a grassroots drive in which funds would be solicited in schools, business and industry, and stores.

Spearheaded by the Chillicothe Jaycees, the group already has options on 1,500 acres of 1,900 acres needed to supplement the 1,300 at the Pike County gaseous diffusion plant already owned by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The options would be excercised only if the plant is located here. The 1,900 acres, which surround the present AEC site, would require purchase of 89 parcels of land from 56 owners at a total cost of more than $500,000.

Assuming the fund drive would be successful, the sponsors already have pledged the AEC will have the necessary 3,200 acres in all if it wants to put the 200 billion electron volt device for particle physics study here.

The team coming here is one of eight viewing 85 proposed sites throughout the nation.

Said U.S. Forces Insufficient

Marine General's Views On Viet Termed Obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Marine general's letter complaining of insufficient forces and authority in Viet Nam was written last July before President Johnson ordered the big military build-up, Marine and defense officials said today.

Thus, they told a reporter, the views expressed by Major Gen. Lewis W. Walt have been overtaken by events and are obsolete, these officials said.

There was no direct word here as to whether Walt, commanding general of the 3rd Marine Division in Viet Nam, has changed his views.

However, one knowledgeable Marine Corps source said, "I am sure he has different feelings now."

Publication of Walt's letter Tuesday caused a stir at high levels in the Pentagon.

It was reported that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara asked for an explanation when it came to his attention.

A check was made by the Navy Department and the Marine Corps and McNamara was told that the letter was a personal one addressed to friends and family and was old stuff.

This apparently satisfied McNamara.

Official pronouncements by military and civilian officials must be cleared in advance for security and policy considerations.

Letters to friends and family, even though they may be made public by some of the receivers, are not in this category and Walt is not being held responsible for release of the letter.

Actually, there are some high military officials who still believe much more should be done in Viet Nam, including a far greater military build-up than the 148,000 Americans now there and bombing of more important targets in North Viet Nam such as the capital city of Hanoi.

In his letter, which appeared in a publication of the 3rd Marine Division Association, Walt wrote: "We have neither the forces nor the authority to do the entire job under the present policy guidance that we operate within.

"I think the free world will soon have to decide whether or not we are going all the way in order to win this conflict."

Walt's letter also said that efforts were confined to insuring the security of bases "we are here to defend."

At that time Walt wrote this letter on July 13, U.S. forces in Viet Nam stood at about 72,000 of which 25,000 were Marines.

About a week later, Johnson announced plans to build up the forces to 125,000 and indicated reinforcements would go even beyond that point.

Since then, U.S. military strength in Viet Nam has more than doubled and the United States is expected to continue pouring more men and equipment into the country. The Marine strength has grown to about 37,000 there, about 12,000 above what it was at the time Walt wrote his letter.

An accomplished pilot and parachutist, she parachuted several times into the thick of the fighting.

She had been to Viet Nam several times on combat assignments. She was a familiar figure among American and Vietnamese Marines on patrol, always in jungle fatigues with a slouch bush hat hiding her horn-rimmed glasses and a field pack crammed with cameras, film and a tape recorder strapped to her back.

When she died, she still wore on her hat the Marine Corps emblem which Gen. Wallace M. Greene, the Marine Corps commandant, took off his uniform and gave to her in his Washington office two months ago when he heard she was going back to Viet Nam.

She arrived Oct. 19 in Da Nang from Saigon and rarely missed a chance to go out on operations and patrols with the Marines.

They were divorced but he continued to serve as her New York agent. He was reported in New York's University Hospital with a heart ailment.

New Date Slated For 2 Tax Cases

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted continuances until next Wednesday in the cases of two men arraigned on charges they violated the city income tax law by failure to file final reports on 1964 earnings.

The continuances were granted Calvin Carney of West Point, as operator of Carney's Tire Service on E. 4th St., and Herbert T. Dorsey of 946 Lisbon St.

Carney pleaded guilty, but said a Salem accounting firm handles his records and he believed until a few days ago it had filed the tax return on his behalf. Dorsey said he was hospitalized from January to August. However, he said he is willing to file a return.

Earlier, the court granted a continuance until Nov. 12 for Clarence A. Bryan of 342 W. 5th St., charged with failure to file an estimate of 1964 income. A bench warrant was ordered for Orin Wasson of 463 1st Ave., who did not appear for a hearing on a charge of failure to file a final 1964 return.

was appointed by county commissioners, Mayor Ralph Kennedy of Leetonia was appointed by the two Common Pleas Court judges and Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem was named by Probate Judge Louis Tobin.

As mayor of the county's most populous city, Willshaw was empowered to appoint two members. Acting under instructions from Wellsville City Council Tuesday night, a Wellsville delegation called on Willshaw yesterday to request him to name a Wellsville resident to the board.

Willshaw indicated he already had decided to appoint Shoub before conferring with the Wellsville group. He pointed out that naming of a Wellsville man now gives a post on the board to every major community in the county.

Under the authority granted by the state agency, the metropolitan board has authority to plan for erection of low - cost housing units in various communities, financing them primarily out of federally-guaranteed loans that would be retired with rental income.

The authority's territory covers the entire county except for three rural townships.

New Date Slated For 2 Tax Cases

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today granted continuances until next Wednesday in the cases of two men arraigned on charges they violated the city income tax law by failure to file final reports on 1964 earnings.

The continuances were granted Calvin Carney of West Point, as operator of Carney's Tire Service on E. 4th St., and Herbert T. Dorsey of 946 Lisbon St.

Carney pleaded guilty, but said a Salem accounting firm handles his records and he believed until a few days ago it had filed the tax return on his behalf. Dorsey said he was hospitalized from January to August. However, he said he is willing to file a return.

Earlier, the court granted a continuance until Nov. 12 for Clarence A. Bryan of 342 W. 5th St., charged with failure to file an estimate of 1964 income. A bench warrant was ordered for Orin Wasson of 463 1st Ave., who did not appear for a hearing on a charge of failure to file a final 1964 return.

was appointed by county commissioners. Mayor Ralph Kennedy of Leetonia was appointed by the two Common Pleas Court judges and Mayor Dean Cranmer of Salem was named by Probate Judge Louis Tobin.

As mayor of the county's most populous city, Willshaw was empowered to appoint two members. Acting under instructions from Wellsville City Council Tuesday night, a Wellsville delegation called on Willshaw yesterday to request him to name a Wellsville resident to the board.

Willshaw indicated he already had decided to appoint Shoub before conferring with the Wellsville group. He pointed out that naming of a Wellsville man now gives a post on the board to every major community in the county.

Under the authority granted by the state agency, the metropolitan board has authority to plan for erection of low - cost housing units in various communities, financing them primarily out of federally-guaranteed loans that would be retired with rental income.

The authority's territory covers the entire county except for three rural townships.

Room divider combines three design themes from the city of Brasilia . . . the sweeping base of the Executive Palace, paneling from the Chapel and the Colonnade motif.

BRASILIA Cathedral table bears positive resemblance to the multi-spired Cathedral in the city of Brasilia. Inlay on top surface of this unusual table again repeats Colonnade motif.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I, too, roll up my blankets and quilts for storage — but, no need for rubber bands or string to hold them.

I learned this trick from my husband years ago, and I think he picked it up while in the service.

Lay article to be folded flat on bed. Fold in thirds lengthwise. Fold one end down about 15 inches more or less, depending on size of roll.

Start rolling the blanket at other end. When the "folded over" end is reached, tuck whole roll between the first two layers, and pull together as tightly as possible.

These will stay neatly intact.

LAVERNE.

Laverne, you just put the icing on the cake! The rolled blanket tucked in neat as could be.

As an added bonus, there won't be a line or crease on it (such as a too-tight string or rubber band might cause) when it is unrolled.

Give your husband an extra hug for teaching you this splendiferous hint!

HELOISE.

Starch And Fish Bowl

DEAR HELOISE: After washing and rinsing your wind bonnet, spray it well with spray starch, hang it on line and allow to dry.

Then spray starch fully a second time; allow to dry, and presto, your bonnet is crisp again and looks like new!

NAOMI.

DEAR HELOISE: Our 3-year-old son has a fish bowl.

Our 16-month-daughter feels the fish need books to read or toys to play with!

In an effort to keep the bowl free of foreign objects, I cut a piece of nylon net, using the top of the bowl as a pattern and allowing three inches all around the bowl.

Then I measured a piece of cord-elastic around the bowl. This was threaded through the net at about one inch intervals and one and one - half inches from the edges, tying the free ends together.

This makes a fine covering and will keep most "objects" out of the bowl.

SUSAN.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE: How about using a swimmer's flipper for a doorstop???

MRS. L. A. DUKE.

DEAR HELOISE: You have given so many hints for inexpensive gifts that I thought I'd tell you what a darling, old friend of mine gave her friend for their 50th wedding anniversary. (Both old ladies are very sweet but very poor).

Now for the gift which is "gold". . . .

She bought a large jar of golden honey, then she bought some gold-colored paper and covered it, then put a pretty gold bow on it, along with an inexpensive card.

It was by far the most appreciated gift, and it was very pretty and useful.

P. J.

DEAR HELOISE: I am 11 years old, and I have invented something that my mother thought you would like.

I always put the dustpan handle over the broomstick when I put the broom away.

I usually need both of them, and they are easier to find that way.

JAN JANSKY.

Your mother was right, Jan. I do like your idea — and what's more, I love you for sharing it with us.

HELOISE.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Illegible Writing Can Be Handicap

For some reason more girls than boys do neat and legible written work. Often the teacher is distressed over the untidy written work of some boys from 8 to 14 years of age. Sometimes these boys excel in oral work. But unless they learn to write more neatly they may be handicapped in their school-work right up through high school or college.

Dr. Garry Myers

One of these boys may be yours. You may not have been concerned about the matter till his teacher called it to your attention. Then you yourself may be distressed over the messy appearance of his handwriting. You may be inclined then to rebuke and shame him for his careless work. But the more you fuss and fume, the worse he may get.

—:—

IT'S possible the boy is excitable and what you call "nervous." He may always be in a hurry. He may have poor muscular coordination. You may wisely have his physician check on him and advise you.

Even so, you certainly will try to find ways to help this lad write more neatly and legibly. Win him to be willing to practice for 10 or 15 minutes at writing under a neat model of a line each evening. Provide him with a calm atmosphere.

Encourage this boy to write a line slowly and carefully right under the model line. It is advisable if this model line were on a strip of cardboard or heavy paper so he could slide it down the page of lined paper, covering up the last line he wrote. Otherwise he might copy from his own writing instead of the model.

AS HE prepares written work for school, encourage him to do the work slowly, carefully and neatly. Win this boy to be willing to have you inspect this written work and to rewrite it himself at times more neatly. Express strong pleasure over his successes.

He may have no sense of margins on his paper. You might draw faint lines on the left and right sides of it, helping him to gain in this direction.

When he does written numbers in arithmetic show him how he can align figures neatly up and down and horizontally.

You may find that a few letters and figures give this boy special trouble. On these you might be able to give him special help.

I CAN remember that, when I was about 9 years old, in the grades, my number work always looked very messy. My wise and kind teacher sat down beside me one day and said, "Garry, let me show you how to do that."

I was so impressed with his kindness and the neat models he made for me that I took heart and was surprised at my improvement afterwards.

If you have a typewriter at home your son may find a powerful urge to write by hand more neatly as he finds how neatly he can write with the machine.

My bulletin, "Your Child and His Handwriting," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Laverne, you just put the icing on the cake! The rolled blanket tucked in neat as could be.

As an added bonus, there won't be a line or crease on it (such as a too-tight string or rubber band might cause) when it is unrolled.

Give your husband an extra hug for teaching you this splendiferous hint!

Starch And Fish Bowl

DEAR HELOISE: After washing and rinsing your wind bonnet, spray it well with spray starch, hang it on line and allow to dry.

Then spray starch fully a second time; allow to dry, and presto, your bonnet is crisp again and looks like new!

NAOMI.

DEAR HELOISE: Our 3-year-old son has a fish bowl.

Our 16-month-daughter feels the fish need books to read or toys to play with!

In an effort to keep the bowl free of foreign objects, I cut a piece of nylon net, using the top of the bowl as a pattern and allowing three inches all around the bowl.

Then I measured a piece of cord-elastic around the bowl. This was threaded through the net at about one inch intervals and one and one - half inches from the edges, tying the free ends together.

This makes a fine covering and will keep most "objects" out of the bowl.

SUSAN.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE: How about using a swimmer's flipper for a doorstop???

MRS. L. A. DUKE.

DEAR HELOISE: You have given so many hints for inexpensive gifts that I thought I'd tell you what a darling, old friend of mine gave her friend for their 50th wedding anniversary. (Both old ladies are very sweet but very poor).

Now for the gift which is "gold"....

She bought a large jar of golden honey, then she bought some gold-colored paper and covered it, then put a pretty gold bow on it, along with an inexpensive card.

It was by far the most appreciated gift, and it was very pretty and useful.

DEAR HELOISE: I am 11 years old, and I have invented something that my mother thought you would like.

I always put the dustpan handle over the broomstick when I put the broom away.

I usually need both of them, and they are easier to find that way.

JAN JANSKY.

Your mother was right, Jan. I do like your idea — and what's more, I love you for sharing it with us.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Illegible Writing Can Be Handicap

For some reason more girls than boys do neat and legible written work. Often the teacher is distressed over the untidy written work of some boys from 8 to 14 years of age. Sometimes these boys excel in oral work. But unless they learn to write more neatly they may be handicapped in their schoolwork right up through high school or college.

Dr. Garry Myers

One of these boys may be yours. You may not have been concerned about the matter till his teacher called it to your attention. Then you yourself may be distressed over the messy appearance of his handwriting. You may be inclined then to rebuke and shame him for his careless work. But the more you fuss and fume, the worse he may get.

—:—

IT'S possible the boy is excitable and what you call "nervous." He may always be in a hurry. He may have poor muscular coordination. You may wisely have his physician check on him and advise you.

Even so, you certainly will try to find ways to help this lad write more neatly and legibly. Win him to be willing to practice for 10 or 15 minutes at writing under a neat model of a line each evening. Provide him with a calm atmosphere.

Encourage this boy to write a line slowly and carefully right under the model line. It is advisable if this model line were on a strip of cardboard or heavy paper so he could slide it down the page of lined paper, covering up the last line he wrote. Otherwise he might copy from his own writing instead of the model.

AS HE prepares written work for school, encourage him to do the work slowly, carefully and neatly. Win this boy to be willing to have you inspect this written work and to rewrite it himself at times more neatly. Express strong pleasure over his successes.

He may have no sense of margins on his paper. You might draw faint lines on the left and right sides of it, helping him to gain in this direction.

When he does written numbers in arithmetic show him how he can align figures neatly up and down and horizontally.

You may find that a few letters and figures give this boy special trouble. On these you might be able to give him special help.

I CAN remember that, when I was about 9 years old, in the grades, my number work always looked very messy. My wise and kind teacher sat down beside me one day and said, "Garry, let me show you how to do that."

I was so impressed with his kindness and the neat models he made for me that I took heart and was surprised at my improvement afterwards.

If you have a typewriter at home your son may find a powerful urge to write by hand more neatly as he finds how neatly he can write with the machine.

My bulletin, "Your Child and His Handwriting," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Sales

as I sit on the bench, I will administer the law," the judge continued. "There is a desperate need for a Sunday law that will be enforced uniformly throughout Ohio. But it is not here. It leads to just plain silliness."

Then the court commented that the towel did not fall within the category of items which drugstores are permitted to sell in Ohio on Sunday.

"Regardless of the court's feelings, I must find the defendant guilty as charged," he said.

Before pronouncing sentence, he closed with a quotation from Gen. U. S. Grant to the effect that "stringent enforcement is the best way to secure repeal of obnoxious laws."

The judge indicated he planned to hear four more cases of alleged Sunday sales violations today. Aronson and Fineman are the defense counsel in each case.

The defendants are Malcolm McBurney, operator of McBurney's Pharmacy at W. 6th St. and Dresden Ave.; Price-Less Discounts Store on E. 5th St.; Sevey's Pharmacy, 2241 St. Clair Ave., and Bloor's Pharmacy, 1010 Pennsylvania Ave.

As O'Neil's case opened, the court overruled a motion to quash the affidavit and the warrant and a defense demurrer.

The motion to quash alleged that the affidavit and warrant were insufficient because they did not allege an offense. The demurrer questioned the constitutionality of the Sunday closing law.

In ruling on the demurrer, the judge cited an opinion which he issued in a similar case a few years ago, upholding the constitutionality of the Sunday law.

He noted that the 7th District Court of Appeals, in a ruling issued about the same time, also upheld the constitutionality of the law. The judge commented he was bound to follow the ruling of the higher court.

In his closing argument, Aronson declared that O'Neil's name never was mentioned in the testimony and said there was no proof "that he was there that day, that he had any connection with the opening of the store or the transaction of business."

Clark conceded that the Ohio law should be clarified.

"But as long as the law is on the books, it is meant to be enforced, regardless of personal feelings," he said. He commented it was up to the court to determine whether or not the purchase involved was a "necessity."

De Gaulle's Decision Due

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle says "yes or no" tonight to the No. 1 question in France — whether he will run on Dec. 5 for another seven years in office.

Most political observers think De Gaulle will say yes. A small minority thinks he has decided to step aside. No one pretends to have inside information or to be sure.

De Gaulle makes his decision public in a radio-television address. There was speculation that his revelation would not come until his closing sentences.

The suspense element has been so carefully built up that De Gaulle was certain to have an almost saturation audience.

One of the reasons for the uncertainty was a complete absence of recent information on the state of his health, a key factor in his decision.

Those who strongly believe De Gaulle would be a candidate base their belief at least in part on these factors:

1. De Gaulle feels at home in power and would not willingly turn over the reins as long as he feels physically fit.

2. Crucial negotiations are in prospect within the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on issues involving France's national interests. De Gaulle thinks he is best qualified to impose France's will.

3. No apparent effort has been made to build up a successor. Premier Georges Pompidou is considered the most likely heir, but Pompidou has been playing his usual self-effacing role.

20 Radiators Stolen

Tire Blowout Cited As Auto Hurdles Curb

A tire blowout was blamed for a mishap early Wednesday night in which a 55-year-old East Liverpool man's auto hurdled a curb along the four - lane West End stretch of W. 8th St., damaging grass on a church lawn, police reported.

The 1958 sedan of Jay Clapp, 405 Washington St., traveled about 60 feet along the grassy stretch near the curb in front of the First Assembly of God Church, officers reported.

Clapp told Patrolman Karl Samples he was driving east on W. 8th St. when his right front tire blew out, throwing the auto into the curb. The mishap, timed at 6:39 damaged the right quarter panel of the auto.

Clapp was cited on a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Pleading guilty to the charge today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Clapp was sentenced to a 30-day term in County Jail. The judge commented that Clapp was arrested for lack of a license last Jan. 15 and drew a 15-day jail term. Queried by the court, Clapp said he lost his permit.

No one was injured Wednesday at 4:51 p. m. when a Pleasant Heights man's auto crashed through guard rails on the River Rd. and came to a halt on the embankment overlooking the Ohio River, officers said.

The 1959 car driven by Charles McGaffick, 65, of 836 Louise St. tore out six guard rail posts, Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes reported.

McGaffick said he lost control as he tried to restrain his young granddaughter, who began climbing over the car's seat. The mishap damaged the right side and front of the auto, officers said.

A collision on Ravine St. near Vine St. at 5:27 p. m. Wednesday damaged a 1959 sedan driven by Lawrence Channels, 38, of R. D. 3 and a 1964 auto operated by Doris A. Christen, 27, of 733 Bradshaw Ave., officers said.

Channels said he was driving east and the woman was headed west, but there was not sufficient room for the two cars to pass because autos were parked on both sides of the street. The woman said she halted her car and Channels, attempting to squeeze through the narrow space, hit her auto on the left rear fender.

When police reached the side of the car, Adkins was in the rear seat and denied he had been driving. However, his passenger gave police a written statement that the defendant was driving and speeded up when he saw the approaching cruiser.

as I sit on the bench, I will administer the law," the judge continued. "There is a desperate need for a Sunday law that will be enforced uniformly throughout Ohio. But it is not here. It leads to just plain silliness."

Then the court commented that the towel did not fall within the category of items which drugstores are permitted to sell in Ohio on Sunday.

"Regardless of the court's feelings, I must find the defendant guilty as charged," he said.

Before pronouncing sentence, he closed with a quotation from Gen. U. S. Grant to the effect that "stringent enforcement is the best way to secure repeal of obnoxious laws."

The judge indicated he planned to hear four more cases of alleged Sunday sales violations today. Aronson and Fineman are the defense counsel in each case.

The defendants are Malcolm McBurney, operator of McBurney's Pharmacy at W. 6th St. and Dresden Ave.; Price-Less Discounts Store on E. 5th St.; Sevey's Pharmacy, 2241 St. Clair Ave., and Bloor's Pharmacy, 1010 Pennsylvania Ave.

As O'Neil's case opened, the court overruled a motion to quash the affidavit and the warrant and a defense demurrer.

The motion to quash alleged that the affidavit and warrant were insufficient because they did not allege an offense. The demurrer questioned the constitutionality of the Sunday closing law.

In ruling on the demurrer, the judge cited an opinion which he issued in a similar case a few years ago, upholding the constitutionality of the Sunday law.

He noted that the 7th District Court of Appeals, in a ruling issued about the same time, also upheld the constitutionality of the law. The judge commented he was bound to follow the ruling of the higher court.

In his closing argument, Aronson declared that O'Neil's name never was mentioned in the testimony and said there was no proof "that he was there that day, that he had any connection with the opening of the store or the transaction of business."

Clark conceded that the Ohio law should be clarified.

"But as long as the law is on the books, it is meant to be enforced, regardless of personal feelings," he said. He commented it was up to the court to determine whether or not the purchase involved was a "necessity."

De Gaulle's Decision Due

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle says "yes or no" tonight to the No. 1 question in France — whether he will run on Dec. 5 for another seven years in office.

Most political observers think De Gaulle will say yes. A small minority thinks he has decided to step aside. No one pretends to have inside information or to be sure.

De Gaulle makes his decision public in a radio-television address. There was speculation that his revelation would not come until his closing sentences.

The suspense element has been so carefully built up that De Gaulle was certain to have an almost saturation audience.

One of the reasons for the uncertainty was a complete absence of recent information on the state of his health, a key factor in his decision.

Those who strongly believe De Gaulle would be a candidate base their belief at least in part on these factors:

1. De Gaulle feels at home in power and would not willingly turn over the reins as long as he feels physically fit.

2. Crucial negotiations are in prospect within the Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on issues involving France's national interests. De Gaulle thinks he is best qualified to impose France's will.

3. No apparent effort has been made to build up a successor. Premier Georges Pompidou is considered the most likely heir, but Pompidou has been playing his usual self-effacing role.

20 Radiators Stolen

LISBON — Sheriff's deputies today were investigating the theft of automobile equipment from a Columbiana area auto parts dealer.

Russell Allan, operator of the A and N Auto Parts on Route 14 near Columbiana, reported 20 car radiators, worth $10 each, were missing. No damage was reported to the store.

Tire Blowout Cited As Auto Hurdles Curb

A tire blowout was blamed for a mishap early Wednesday night in which a 55-year-old East Liverpool man's auto hurdled a curb along the four - lane West End stretch of W. 8th St., damaging grass on a church lawn, police reported.

The 1958 sedan of Jay Clapp, 405 Washington St., traveled about 60 feet along the grassy stretch near the curb in front of the First Assembly of God Church, officers reported.

Clapp told Patrolman Karl Samples he was driving east on W. 8th St. when his right front tire blew out, throwing the auto into the curb. The mishap, timed at 6:39 damaged the right quarter panel of the auto.

Clapp was cited on a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Pleading guilty to the charge today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Clapp was sentenced to a 30-day term in County Jail. The judge commented that Clapp was arrested for lack of a license last Jan. 15 and drew a 15-day jail term. Queried by the court, Clapp said he lost his permit.

No one was injured Wednesday at 4:51 p. m. when a Pleasant Heights man's auto crashed through guard rails on the River Rd. and came to a halt on the embankment overlooking the Ohio River, officers said.

The 1959 car driven by Charles McGaffick, 65, of 836 Louise St. tore out six guard rail posts, Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes reported.

McGaffick said he lost control as he tried to restrain his young granddaughter, who began climbing over the car's seat. The mishap damaged the right side and front of the auto, officers said.

A collision on Ravine St. near Vine St. at 5:27 p. m. Wednesday damaged a 1959 sedan driven by Lawrence Channels, 38, of R. D. 3 and a 1964 auto operated by Doris A. Christen, 27, of 733 Bradshaw Ave., officers said.

Channels said he was driving east and the woman was headed west, but there was not sufficient room for the two cars to pass because autos were parked on both sides of the street. The woman said she halted her car and Channels, attempting to squeeze through the narrow space, hit her auto on the left rear fender.

Holiday Period Nears

Busy Season Under Way For Charity Swindlers

CHICAGO (AP) — Fund raisers whose favorite charity is themselves are getting ready to capitalize on the spirit of giving engendered by the approaching holiday season.

The busiest time of year is beginning for the charity swindlers who, by the time Christmas is over, will have frisked generous Americans of millions of dollars, the Better Business Bureau says.

"They're stepping up their activities now," John Nichols, vice president of the Chicago bureau, said in an interview Wednesday night. "Little storefront so-called religious groups, for instance, count on people being in a warmer mood."

Charity swindlers net about $100 million a year, the bureau said. Although there's no telling what amount is made during the Christmas season, the volume of complaints then indicates it considerable.

There are numerous ways by which gypsters and crooked professional fund raisers enrich themselves. Often, legitimate and worthwhile causes are their victims.

"When they sign up for the services of professional fund raisers they aren't aware how much will be siphoned off as costs," said Nichols.

"We have cases in which as much as 90 per cent of the money collected is skimmed off," he said. And although inefficiency occasionally is to blame, usually somebody is fattening himself on the public generosity.

How can the individual donor be sure a major portion of his charity dollar actually is going to aid a worthwhile cause?

Telephone the Better Business Bureau before donating, Nichols advised.

29 Youths Cited In Aftermath Of School Raid Plot

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Five youths are to be arraigned in Struthers Municipal Court and 24 others will sit in the Mahoning County Detention Home over the weekend after police confiscated assorted weapons in an apparent attempted high school counter-raid.

Police picked up the youths, identified as mostly from Struthers High School, behind the school Tuesday night.

Police said they were part of a gang getting together for a raid on Boardman High School in retaliation for the painting Monday of Struthers stadium bleachers in Boardman's blue and white colors.

From the gang of 175, police collected chains with locks on the ends, iron pipes, billy clubs, bottles, firearms, several gallons of paint and rubber hoses.

Boardman and Struthers play tonight for the Steel Valley Conference championship and Judge Harold S. Rickert warned any disturbance at the game would be dealt with severely.

The five youths, 18-years-old or over, were released on $25 bonds, pending the arraignment tonight.

2 Ohio Families Get News Of Sons Killed In Viet Nam

By The Associated Press

Ben Hoover of Roseville, Ohio, was in a unique position to be bitter today, if that were his nature.

While he shepherds scores of lawbreakers in the safe confines of prison, he mourns his son—killed in his nation's service in South Viet Nam.

Ben Hoover, captain in charge of Ohio Penitentiary's Roseville branch, and his wife got the news from the Defense Department this week. Sp. 5 James Hoover, 23, their only child, was killed Sunday in a Viet Cong ambush.

The captain, a 20-year veteran of the state correctional service, got the news just a day after Russ Sharp of Dayton and his parents learned that another Ohio boy—Russ' twin brother Rick—had been killed in Viet Nam action.

The Sharps had reason to be bitter too.

Rick, 19, had expressed his disgust and discouragement at anti-war demonstrations in the United States, brother Russ related. "He felt his own generation didn't give him full support."

Young Hoover's parents were too grief-stricken Wednesday to say too much about their son, killed on the ground while serving with a helicopter Corsbat force of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile).

But they said that in a recent letter he had termed the American job in Viet Nam a "gruesome task" that had to be done.

Jim Hoover graduated from Logan Elm High School near Circleville. The family moved from Laurelville, where the father previously was stationed, to Roseville six months ago.

The son thus became Muskingum County's first Viet Nam war dead.

He had been in Viet Nam seven weeks and was due for discharge in February.

Rick Sharp and his brother graduated from Dayton Belmont High School in 1964 and two weeks later were in the Marines together.

They were inseparable. "Every weekend while stationed in California," Russ recalls, "we rented motorcycles and went riding in the hills around San Diego. Just the two of us."

Then, last March, Russ was discharged because of a bad knee while Rick was shipped to Viet Nam. Russ says he helped his brother pack his overseas gear and that he himself "wanted to go real bad. I tried to stay in after I learned about my knee. I even asked for truck driver duty in Viet Nam, but the Navy denied my request."

Rick, who wanted to be a forest ranger, was killed last Friday by an unknown explosion possibly from a shell or a land mine.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell D. Sharp.

Mrs. Clark of Ray, Jackson County, died in Chillicothe Hospital several hours after the Winks car came out of a side road and into the path of an auto driven by William W. West, 39, of Jackson, on U.S. 35 near Richmondale, Ross County.

Holiday Period Nears

Busy Season Under Way For Charity Swindlers

CHICAGO (AP) — Fund raisers whose favorite charity is themselves are getting ready to capitalize on the spirit of giving engendered by the approaching holiday season.

The busiest time of year is beginning for the charity swindlers who, by the time Christmas is over, will have frisked generous Americans of millions of dollars, the Better Business Bureau says.

"They're stepping up their activities now," John Nichols, vice president of the Chicago bureau, said in an interview Wednesday night. "Little storefront so-called religious groups, for instance, count on people being in a warmer mood."

Charity swindlers net about $100 million a year, the bureau said. Although there's no telling what amount is made during the Christmas season, the volume of complaints then indicates it considerable.

There are numerous ways by which gypsters and crooked professional fund raisers enrich themselves. Often, legitimate and worthwhile causes are their victims.

"When they sign up for the services of professional fund raisers they aren't aware how much will be siphoned off as costs," said Nichols.

"We have cases in which as much as 90 per cent of the money collected is skimmed off," he said. And although inefficiency occasionally is to blame, usually somebody is fattening himself on the public generosity.

How can the individual donor be sure a major portion of his charity dollar actually is going to aid a worthwhile cause?

Telephone the Better Business Bureau before donating, Nichols advised.

29 Youths Cited In Aftermath Of School Raid Plot

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Five youths are to be arraigned in Struthers Municipal Court and 24 others will sit in the Mahoning County Detention Home over the weekend after police confiscated assorted weapons in an apparent attempted high school counter-raid.

Police picked up the youths, identified as mostly from Struthers High School, behind the school Tuesday night.

Police said they were part of a gang getting together for a raid on Boardman High School in retaliation for the painting Monday of Struthers stadium bleachers in Boardman's blue and white colors.

From the gang of 175, police collected chains with locks on the ends, iron pipes, billy clubs, bottles, firearms, several gallons of paint and rubber hoses.

Boardman and Struthers play tonight for the Steel Valley Conference championship and Judge Harold S. Rickert warned any disturbance at the game would be dealt with severely.

The five youths, 18-years-old or over, were released on $25 bonds, pending the arraignment tonight.

2 Ohio Families Get News Of Sons Killed In Viet Nam

By The Associated Press

Ben Hoover of Roseville, Ohio, was in a unique position to be bitter today, if that were his nature.

While he shepherds scores of lawbreakers in the safe confines of prison, he mourns his son—killed in his nation's service in South Viet Nam.

Ben Hoover, captain in charge of Ohio Penitentiary's Roseville branch, and his wife got the news from the Defense Department this week. Sp. 5 James Hoover, 23, their only child, was killed Sunday in a Viet Cong ambush.

The captain, a 20-year veteran of the state correctional service, got the news just a day after Russ Sharp of Dayton and his parents learned that another Ohio boy—Russ' twin brother Rick—had been killed in Viet Nam action.

The Sharps had reason to be bitter too.

Rick, 19, had expressed his disgust and discouragement at anti-war demonstrations in the United States, brother Russ related. "He felt his own generation didn't give him full support."

Young Hoover's parents were too grief-stricken Wednesday to say too much about their son, killed on the ground while serving with a helicopter Corsbat force of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile).

But they said that in a recent letter he had termed the American job in Viet Nam a "gruesome task" that had to be done.

Jim Hoover graduated from Logan Elm High School near Circleville. The family moved from Laurelville, where the father previously was stationed, to Roseville six months ago.

The son thus became Muskingum County's first Viet Nam war dead.

He had been in Viet Nam seven weeks and was due for discharge in February.

Rick Sharp and his brother graduated from Dayton Belmont High School in 1964 and two weeks later were in the Marines together.

They were inseparable. "Every weekend while stationed in California," Russ recalls, "we rented motorcycles and went riding in the hills around San Diego. Just the two of us."

Then, last March, Russ was discharged because of a bad knee while Rick was shipped to Viet Nam. Russ says he helped his brother pack his overseas gear and that he himself "wanted to go real bad. I tried to stay in after I learned about my knee. I even asked for truck driver duty in Viet Nam, but the Navy denied my request."

Rick, who wanted to be a forest ranger, was killed last Friday by an unknown explosion possibly from a shell or a land mine.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell D. Sharp.

A TV City For New York?

The talent union which represents most of the performers in radio and TV in the East has called on New York officials to make a determined effort to wrest television programming from the grip of Hollywood studios and return it to New York.

Richard Doan

The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) said it regarded the recently closed World's Fair as a "ready-made site" for a television production center which might encourage producers to come back to New York.

POINTING OUT that in the early 1950s "nearly every program on television originated from New York City," Kenneth Groot, executive secretary of AFTRA's New York local, recalled that during those years "the networks built large lateral facilities in Hollywood to accommodate their program needs and constant pressure was placed on independent producers to originate their programs on the West Coast."

"In the absence of adequate facilities in New York, many of these producers did move to Hollywood," he continued.

"During 1957 when sponsors, producers and advertising agencies complained that the city lacked adequate television facilities, conferences were arranged at the mayor's office, and the administration promised to participate in a project for a $50 million television city. This project was dropped, and New York suffered the consequences."

-:-

GROOT NOTED that the World's Fair site already is wired for television, and has separate cables for other communications facilities.

He suggested that converting the exhibition buildings into a TV city would be a way in which the city might recoup some of its $29 million invested in the fair and "bring more employment back to New York."

"TAIN'T SO!" pained TV industry officials retorted to a story in last week's Variety, the show business weekly, saying the Nielsen ratings people had found that nighttime television viewing is ruled by "kids and grandma."

The trade paper published figures, purportedly derived from demographic studies by the A. C. Nielsen Co., showing that "nonadults" under 18 years of age and women over 50 constituted 72 per cent of the TV audience in the early evening, and as much as 50 per cent even at 10:30 to 11 p.m.

Calling the implications "tremendous," Variety said it demonstrated TV in prime time "has to appeal to that 'kids and old ladies' group or it's a dead duck as far as getting that all-important Nielsen rating is concerned."

BOTH the Television Bureau of Advertising, an industry group representing all major facets of the business, and the Nielsen Co. itself issued denials.

"The people at the networks are just frantic over it," a Nielsen spokesman reported, explaining that the Variety writer evidently took his figures from the "wrong columns" of a tabulated report and compounded the error by improperly adding percentages.

Actually, the Nielsen man said, the total representation of young people and women-over-50 is found to range from about 50 per cent in early evening to 34 per cent at 10:30 to 11.

TV'S SMALL fad for shows about people running from something is approaching the confusing stage.

"The Fugitive" and "Run for Your Life," two dramatic series currently pursuing this gambit, have given rise to the inevitable takeoffs among pilots being offered the networks for next season.

CBS has "Run, Buddy, Run," while NBC has "Run, Jack, Run."

David Susskind and Leonard Stern, riding high with this season's newest hit, "Get Smart," came up with "Buddy," about a Milquetoast who inadvertently learns some Mafia secrets.

"Jack" will be produced by Edward J. Montagne, who turns out "McHale's Navy." The pilot will star David Astor and Adam Keefe as two young blades working at odd jobs around the country and getting involved in everything from "bouts with the underworld to slinky blonde international spies."

Three Suspects Sought In Stabbing, Shooting

GALLUP, N.M. (AP)—Ohio relatives attended the West Virginia funeral of the victim while New Mexico and Arizona authorities sought suspects in the multiple-stabbing, multiple-shooting murder of a Prescott, Ariz., mining worker.

Ralph M. Littleton, 45, evidently waylaid on the highway near here, was buried at Madison, W. Va., his hometown. Authorities said three persons, all in their 20s, were sought and that the hunt had zeroed in on the Flagstaff, Ariz., area. Littleton, slain Oct. 27, leaves three sisters in Ohio—Mrs. Margie Fargo, Columbus; Mrs. Nadine Hager, Newark, and Mrs. Rosa Caldwell, New Marshfield.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I just read your answer to the 15-year-old girl who bites her fingernails way down. You said, "When you find out what's eating you you'll stop eating your nails. Get professional help."

Almost every day in your screwball column you are telling someone to get professional help. Pray tell, Ann Landers, what is eating YOU? If you had your way, every third person in the United States and Canada would be going to a psychiatrist.

In the first place, there are not enough psychiatrists to go around. In the second place, they are too blooming expensive. In the third place, most psychiatrists are nuttier than a fruitcake and THEY need professional help.

Isn't it barely possible that the girl who bites her nails is a little nervous? I've known people who have bitten their nails all their lives and never ended up in the hatch.

Yours for saner and sounder advice.—ALSO A NAIL BITER.

Dear Also: Some nail biters aren't concerned about the habit but the girl who wrote wanted advice and I offered it. YOU probably would chew your nails up to the elbow before you'd admit something was bothering you.

True, there aren't enough psychiatrists to go around, but this is no reason not to recommend profesional help.

Psychiatry is not the sure-cure for all mankind's ills but it has restored many wretched, useless people to a life of productivity and contentment and I support it.

Two-Time Loser

Dear Ann: I have a problem you've never heard of. My husband thinks he is a race horse. Harry refuses to eat anything but oats. When I serve him delicious T-bone steaks and double-thick lamb chops he snorts and refuses to settle down until I slip a bag of oats around his neck.

Harry thinks he won the Kentucky Derby. Last night he was repeating the Derby story and one of the listeners who has has known Harry all his life said "Are you saying you RODE the winner of the Derby?" My husband replied, "Rode nothing . . . I WAS the winner."

Ann, what am I going to do? Now he wants to sleep in the barn and it's getting very cold. Don't tell me to take him to a psychiatrist. He won't go to anyone but a veterinarian. — DESPERATE.

Dear Desperate: So your husband thinks he's a horse? Well, you have a more serious problem. YOU think you are a comedian. Get a part-time job and stop wasting my time with phony letters.

Strong Words

Dear Ann: A recent column has stirred up considerable conflict among my friends. I'm referring to your statement that the parents of the bridesmaids should be invited to the wedding "no matter how small the church is."

We believe such advice is small-townish and impractical. Often the guest list must be abbreviated because of family obligations on both sides. This means many friends must be omitted — close friends at that —and it is hoped that they will understand.

Does it make sense, then, that the parents of the bridesmaids who are often nodding acquaintances (or total strangers) be invited simply so they can enjoy the pleasure of seeing their darling daughter in the wedding procession?

Your advice is usually pretty sound, Ann, but this time I think you should eat your words. — VOICE FROM THE 50th FLOOR.

Dear Voice: Gulp, Gulp!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CBS has "Run, Buddy, Run," while NBC has "Run, Jack, Run."

David Susskind and Leonard Stern, riding high with this season's newest hit, "Get Smart," came up with "Buddy," about a Milquetoast who inadvertently learns some Mafia secrets.

"Jack" will be produced by Edward J. Montagne, who turns out "McHale's Navy." The pilot will star David Astor and Adam Keefe as two young blades working at odd jobs around the country and getting involved in everything from "bouts with the underworld to slinky blonde international spies."

Three Suspects Sought In Stabbing, Shooting

GALLUP, N.M. (AP)—Ohio relatives attended the West Virginia funeral of the victim while New Mexico and Arizona authorities sought suspects in the multiple-stabbing, multiple-shooting murder of a Prescott, Ariz., mining worker.

Ralph M. Littleton, 45, evidently waylaid on the highway near here, was buried at Madison, W. Va., his hometown. Authorities said three persons, all in their 20s, were sought and that the hunt had zeroed in on the Flagstaff, Ariz., area. Littleton, slain Oct. 27, leaves three sisters in Ohio—Mrs. Margie Fargo, Columbus; Mrs. Nadine Hager, Newark, and Mrs. Rosa Caldwell, New Marshfield.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I just read your answer to the 15-year-old girl who bites her fingernails way down. You said, "When you find out what's eating you you'll stop eating your nails. Get professional help."

Almost every day in your screwball column you are telling someone to get professional help. Pray tell, Ann Landers, what is eating YOU? If you had your way, every third person in the United States and Canada would be going to a psychiatrist.

In the first place, there are not enough psychiatrists to go around. In the second place, they are too blooming expensive. In the third place, most psychiatrists are nuttier than a fruitcake and THEY need professional help.

Isn't it barely possible that the girl who bites her nails is a little nervous? I've known people who have bitten their nails all their lives and never ended up in the hatch.

Yours for saner and sounder advice.—ALSO A NAIL BITER.

Dear Also: Some nail biters aren't concerned about the habit but the girl who wrote wanted advice and I offered it. YOU probably would chew your nails up to the elbow before you'd admit something was bothering you.

True, there aren't enough psychiatrists to go around, but this is no reason not to recommend profesional help.

Psychiatry is not the surecure for all mankind's ills but it has restored many wretched, useless people to a life of productivity and contentment and I support it.

Two-Time Loser

Dear Ann: I have a problem you've never heard of. My husband thinks he is a race horse. Harry refuses to eat anything but oats. When I serve him delicious T-bone steaks and double-thick lamb chops he snorts and refuses to settle down until I slip a bag of oats around his neck.

Harry thinks he won the Kentucky Derby. Last night he was repeating the Derby story and one of the listeners who has has known Harry all his life said "Are you saying you RODE the winner of the Derby?" My husband replied, "Rode nothing . . . I WAS the winner."

Ann, what am I going to do? Now he wants to sleep in the barn and it's getting very cold. Don't tell me to take him to a psychiatrist. He won't go to anyone but a veterinarian. — DESPERATE.

Dear Desperate: So your husband thinks he's a horse? Well, you have a more serious problem. YOU think you are a comedian. Get a part-time job and stop wasting my time with phony letters.

Strong Words

Dear Ann: A recent column has stirred up considerable conflict among my friends. I'm referring to your statement that the parents of the bridesmaids should be invited to the wedding "no matter how small the church is."

We believe such advice is small-townish and impractical. Often the guest list must be abbreviated because of family obligations on both sides. This means many friends must be omitted — close friends at that —and it is hoped that they will understand.

Does it make sense, then, that the parents of the bridesmaids who are often nodding acquaintances (or total strangers) be invited simply so they can enjoy the pleasure of seeing their darling daughter in the wedding procession?

Your advice is usually pretty sound, Ann, but this time I think you should eat your words. — VOICE FROM THE 50th FLOOR.

Dear Voice: Gulp, Gulp!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Difficult, Expensive Campaign

Labor Plans To Organize Nation's 'Working Poor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The labor movement is preparing to penetrate a field most union chiefs long viewed as profitless — organizing the nation's vast army of the "working poor."

It will be one of the most difficult and expensive organizing campaigns ever attempted, but the potential for new union members is vast.

It is estimated that some 15 million workers now have low-paying jobs. That's about equal to the total present number of union members in the United States.

Labor spokesmen apply the term "working poor" generally to all workers not covered by the federal minimum wage. They include farm workers, hospital orderlies, laundry and hotel workers and employes in numerous other service type jobs.

The increasing awareness among labor leaders of this organizing potential has grown out of labor's work in civil rights and government antipoverty programs aimed at upgrading the skills of low-wage workers.

The first move in the organizing campaign will come when the AFL- CIO's Industrial Union Department, headed by Walter Reuther, Auto Workers president, meets in Washington Nov. 18-19.

Among the major matters to be ironed out is resolving the problem of jurisdictional lines between unions, some of which already are operating in the field of low-wage industries.

Most of the low-paid workers who will be targets of the campaign are in small units in small businesses scattered throughout the nation.

The present thinking is to resolve the jurisdictional question by organizing these workers into whatever union is closest or strongest in a given area.

Another major problem is that most of the lower - paid workers in small business operations can't afford to pay dues or initiation fees or other costs of supporting a union.

Thus, labor leaders expect to lose money at first, but hope eventually the newly organized workers can be made self-supporting.

Improved Salem Eleven Brings 5-3 Record Here

After two losing season's, Salem, which will be East Liverpool's final opponent at Patterson Field for the 1965 season, is already assured of at least a .500 record.

Bob James who replaced Don Clarico this season, has guided the Salem Club to a 5-3 record which included a four - game winning streak through mid season.

SALEM has shown throughout the season it can be a dangerous outfit with a 7-6 upset over Marietta as the highlight of the campaign.

The Quakers had their four game winning streak stopped last week when undefeated Boardman came out on top, 26-6, but in that game Salem receivers dropped numerous passes including two which could have been touchdowns.

The report from Salem shows that the 1965 edition is a fundamentally sound club featuring good blocking and tackling while the offense is diversified.

THE LEADING scorer and ground gainer in Salem's well balanced attack is Rick Metts, a 185-pound junior fullback, who seems to get better with each game.

Metts has the distinction of not losing a yard so far this season and has an average of five yards per carry. He has scored 28 points.

Tod Chappell, 150-pound senior, will be at quarterback and was on target with most of his passing attempts last week against Boardman only to see several dropped.

RATED the most competitive player on the squad, Chappell started the season at halfback before James decided to move him to the quarterback spot and the move has proved successful.

The halfbacks will be Joe Rottenborn, a 170-pound senior, who was converted from quarterback. Rottenborn is rated a fair runner and is one of Chappell's prime targets. The other halfback will be Bill Shasteen, 170-pound junior. Dave Fleischer, a 165-pound dash man in track who covers the 100 in 10.1, is used at times. He pick up 187 yards in the win at Wellsville.

Jim Lantz, 180 - pound senior will be at one end and is another of Chappell's favorite receivers. The other terminal spot will be handled by Pat Mundy, 175-pound senior.

SALEM shows a couple of 200 pound tackles in Bob Whitman (210) and Jay Oana (230). Both tackles are seniors.

At the guard spots will be Rick Klepper, 180-pound senior and Tom Swetye (145) the only sophomore starter on the team. Fred Crowgey, 185-pound junior, will start at center.

James will make nine changes on defense and will have nine underclassmen in the defensive lineup.

SALEM opened with a 20-8 victory over Cleveland Lincoln but lost to a strong Ravenna team 34-8 and Lorain, 22-6.

The Quakers began a four-game winning streak at the expense of West Branch, 22-0, edged Marietta, 7-6, defeated Canton Timken, 19-6 and bounced back from a 16-0 deficit to nip Wellsville, 20-16, before losing to Boardman.

Spartans Own No. 1 Record Defensively

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the reasons that the Michigan State Spartans are the No. 1 college football team in the country is that they yield yardage grudgingly — particularly on the ground.

The latest statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show that the Spartans jumped from fourth to first in the rushing defense department after holding Northwestern to seven yards on the ground last Saturday.

Southern Mississippi, playing a less trying schedule than the Spartans' Big Ten card, continues to be the best defensive team statistically in over-all defense, with Toledo second and Vanderbilt third.

The strong Southern Mississippi team has given up only 165 yards a game, compared with 165.7 for Toledo and 182.4 for Vanderbilt. Michigan State is ninth with a yield of 194.7.

The Spartans are supreme in the rushing defense department, having given up only an average of 57.4 yards. Cincinnati follows with 59.3 and Notre Dame is third with 69.8.

Bullets Seem To Have Best Of NBA Trade

By The Associated Press

The first returns on the Walt Bellamy trade indicate the Baltimore Bullets got the better of the deal with the New York Knicks — for one night at least.

Bellamy, 6-foot-11, was traded to the Knicks on Monday in the biggest deal of the season in the National Basketball Association. To get him the Knicks sent Johnny Egan, Jim Barnes and Johnny Green to the Bullets in addition to an undisclosed amount of cash.

So, in the first meeting of the teams since the deal, the Bullets crushed the Knicks 129-114 Wednesday night at the Civic Center in Baltimore. Bellamy managed only 15 points and sat out most of the second half before fouling out.

In contrast, Egan's passing and Barnes' rebounds resulted in numerous fast-break baskets. Barnes tallied 15 points, Egan five and Green four.

Detroit, with clutch shooting by rookie Tom Van Arsdale, handed the Philadelphia 76ers their first defeat of the season 110-100 and Happy Hairston came off the bench to spark Cincinnati to a come-from-behind 122-108 triumph over San Francisco.

Los Angeles whipped St. Louis 120-116 with a second-half rally in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday. Boston had an open date.

Mrs. Breedlove To Try Breaking Speed Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — The pretty, dark-haired wife of the fastest man on wheels wants to become the fastest woman on wheels.

Mrs. Craig Breedlove, wife of the man who roared to 555.127 miles per hour to grab the land speed record here Tuesday, planned to drive her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I today in an attempt on Betty Skelton's 277.62 m.p.h. mark set last September.

Miss Skelton, of Detroit, drove Art Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops, an open cockpit jet dragster, 250.61 m.p.h. and returned on the one-mile measured portion of the 11-mile course at a speed of 315.72 m.p.h.

The 277.62 mark shattered the previous record of 226 m.p.h. set by Paula Murphy of Los Angeles in 1964.

Now Lee Breedlove wants to try for the record.

"I just want to do it," she said Wednesday night. "Paula Murphy and Betty Skelton did. And I just want to try it myself.

Lee said she had talked it over with Craig about a year ago and then decided definitely the day before her 28-year-old husband established the new mark.

Lee, who admits to being "as old as my husband," said she has never driven competitively before.

"But I like to fly and drive motorcycles," she said. "We have a Bonneville 120 (motorcyle). We also have smaller ones, but I like the big one best. I don't fly solo but I want to learn."

A mother of five children ranging in age from 2½ to 9½, Lee said she attends night school at home in Palos Verdes, Calif. She's studying to become a secretary.

She says she has helped her husband work on the engines of some of his cars, but nowadays sticks more to errands and secretarial work.

"We went out and sat in the car today and went over the instrument panel. I'll make some test runs early tomorrow and then try for the record," she said.

Golfer Shot An Ace, But On Wrong Hole

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Lawrence Warner recently scored a hole-in-one but it didn't count.

On the second hole, Warner unloosed a mighty drive that disappeared behind a fringe of trees. He couldn't find the ball, dropped another and continued the round.

On hole No. 7, Warner sank his putt and inside the cup was the missing ball: A hole-in-one on the wrong hole!

Kansas City Tackle Gains AFL Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Junious (Buck) Buchanan has had some big days since he came out of Grambling and signed with the Kansas City Chiefs as a No. 1 draft choice. But the 6-foot-7, 286-pound defensive tackle never had a bigger day than last Sunday when he made 11 tackles against Oakland.

Dick Wood, the Raiders' 6-foot-5 quarterback, never had a chance when Buchanan wrapped his big hands around his shoulders and tossed him three times for losses of 11, 10 and 10 yards.

"I was just lucky to get in there," Buchanan told staffer Jim Van Valkenburg. "I wasn't doing anything different. Two of them were on blitz situations, and I'm not sure about the other time."

Buck Buchanan's performance gained him the nod today as the Defensive Player of the Week in the American Football League by The Associated Press.

"He is a great football player and has tremendous potential," said Stram. "There is no finer defensive tackle in the league."

Bobby Bell, the Chiefs' fine linebacker, had another outstanding game with nine tackles.

W. K. Hicks, a defensive back for the Houston Oilers, grabbed at the headlines with three interceptions against Buffalo. Hicks' real name is Wilmer Kenzie and the playars call him "Gypsie" but he prefers the W. K.

Koufax Receives Cy Young Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax, the 1965 Cy Young Award as baseball's best pitcher climaxed "the most gratifying season I've ever had."

The 29-year-old left-hander, who pitched the Dodgers to the National League pennant and a victory in the World Series, was notified of the award Wednesday.

It was the second time — the first was 1963 — that Koufax has been the recipient, and on both occasions the vote was unanimous.

"It was a great thrill the first time," said the handsome bachelor, "and a greater thrill this time.

"It was particularly satisfying this year to win it in a league which had so many good pitchers. It was a pitchers' year."

In spring training Koufax came up with an arthritic condition in his throwing elbow that threatened his career, but the Brooklyn native came back to record the most impressive statistics of his 11 years in the major leagues.

He won 26 games, including eight shutouts, in the regular season and blanked the Minnesota Twins twice in the World Series — the second a 2-0 clincher in the decisive seventh game.

He recorded baseball's lowest earned run average, 2.04, and broke Bob Feller's season strikeout record of 347 by fanning 382.

His most striking achievement was a perfect game — only the eighth in baseball history — Sept. 9 against the Chicago Cubs. It was the fourth no-hitter of Sandy's illustrious career.

Commissioner Ford Frick, when told of the selection by the Baseball Writers Association of America, complimented Koufax:

"The way Sandy has pitched the last few years, his name belongs right up there with Cy Young as one of the great pitchers of all times."

And Sandy's reaction?

"To be able to climax the season with a pennant and a world championship is the greatest thrill of all.

"To have this kind of year and win this sort of award after wondering in the spring whether I'd be able to pitch once a week or at all just adds up to the most gratifying season I've ever had."

Improved Salem Eleven Brings 5-3 Record Here

Bullets Seem To Have Best Of NBA Trade

By The Associated Press

The first returns on the Walt Bellamy trade indicate the Baltimore Bullets got the better of the deal with the New York Knicks — for one night at least.

Bellamy, 6-foot-11, was traded to the Knicks on Monday in the biggest deal of the season in the National Basketball Association. To get him the Knicks sent Johnny Egan, Jim Barnes and Johnny Green to the Bullets in addition to an undisclosed amount of cash.

So, in the first meeting of the teams since the deal, the Bullets crushed the Knicks 129-114 Wednesday night at the Civic Center in Baltimore. Bellamy managed only 15 points and sat out most of the second half before fouling out.

In contrast, Egan's passing and Barnes' rebounds resulted in numerous fast-break baskets. Barnes tallied 15 points, Egan five and Green four.

Detroit, with clutch shooting by rookie Tom Van Arsdale, handed the Philadelphia 76ers their first defeat of the season 110-100 and Happy Hairston came off the bench to spark Cincinnati to a come-from-behind 122-108 triumph over San Francisco.

Los Angeles whipped St. Louis 120-116 with a second-half rally in the other NBA game scheduled Wednesday. Boston had an open date.

East Liverpool's Junior High All-Stars, selected from Westgate and East Junior High, will battle a Massillon All-Star team today with kickoff at 5 p. m. at Patterson Field. Two Little League football games will follow the Junior High game.

Koufax Receives Cy Young Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax, the 1965 Cy Young Award as baseball's best pitcher climaxed "the most gratifying season I've ever had."

The 29-year-old left-hander, who pitched the Dodgers to the National League pennant and a victory in the World Series, was notified of the award Wednesday.

It was the second time — the first was 1963 — that Koufax has been the recipient, and on both occasions the vote was unanimous.

"It was a great thrill the first time," said the handsome bachelor, "and a greater thrill this time.

"It was particularly satisfying this year to win it in a league which had so many good pitchers. It was a pitchers' year."

In spring training Koufax came up with an arthritic condition in his throwing elbow that threatened his career, but the Brooklyn native came back to record the most impressive statistics of his 11 years in the major leagues.

He won 26 games, including eight shutouts, in the regular season and blanked the Minnesota Twins twice in the World Series — the second a 2-0 clincher in the decisive seventh game.

He recorded baseball's lowest earned run average, 2.04, and broke Bob Feller's season strikeout record of 347 by fanning 382.

His most striking achievement was a perfect game — only the eighth in baseball history — Sept. 9 against th. Chicago Cubs. It was the fourth no-hitter of Sandy's illustrious career.

Commissioner Ford Frick, when told of the selection by the Baseball Writers Association of America, complimented Koufax:

"The way Sandy has pitched the last few years, his name belongs right up there with Cy Young as one of the great pitchers of all times."

And Sandy's reaction?

"To be able to climax the season with a pennant and a world championship is the greatest thrill of all.

"To have this kind of year and win this sort of award after wondering in the spring whether I'd be able to pitch once a week or at all just adds up to the most gratifying season I've ever had."

Mrs. Breedlove To Try Breaking Speed Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — The pretty, dark-haired wife of the fastest man on wheels wants to become the fastest woman on wheels.

Mrs. Craig Breedlove, wife of the man who roared to 555.127 miles per hour to grab the land speed record here Tuesday, planned to drive her husband's Spirit of America Sonic I today in an attempt on Betty Skelton's 277.62 m.p.h. mark set last September.

Miss Skelton, of Detroit, drove Art Arfons' Green Monster Cyclops, an open cockpit jet dragster, 250.61 m.p.h. and returned on the one-mile measured portion of the 11-mile course at a speed of 315.72 m.p.h.

The 277.62 mark shattered the previous record of 226 m.p.h. set by Paula Murphy of Los Angeles in 1964.

Now Lee Breedlove wants to try for the record.

"I just want to do it," she said Wednesday night. "Paula Murphy and Betty Skelton did. And I just want to try it myself.

Lee said she had talked it over with Craig about a year ago and then decided definitely the day before her 28-year-old husband established the new mark.

Lee, who admits to being "as old as my husband," said she has never driven competitively before.

"But I like to fly and drive motorcycles," she said. "We have a Bonneville 120 (motorcyle). We also have smaller ones, but I like the big one best. I don't fly solo but I want to learn."

A mother of five children ranging in age from 2½ to 9½, Lee said she attends night school at home in Palos Verdes, Calif. She's studying to become a secretary.

She says she has helped her husband work on the engines of some of his cars, but nowadays sticks more to errands and secretarial work.

"We went out and sat in the car today and went over the instrument panel. I'll make some test runs early tomorrow and then try for the record," she said.

Golfer Shot An Ace, But On Wrong Hole

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Lawrence Warner recently scored a hole-in-one but it didn't count.

On the second hole, Warner unloosed a mighty drive that disappeared behind a fringe of trees. He couldn't find the ball, dropped another and continued the round.

On hole No. 7, Warner sank his putt and inside the cup was the missing ball: A hole-in-one on the wrong hole!

Findlay Drops To 4th Spot In NAIA Ratings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)— Findlay's 21-19 loss last weekend to Northern Michigan dropped the Ohio squad from first place in the NAIA rankings and demoted the Oilers to ninth.

Los Angeles Expected To Get AFL Franchise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Football League will have a team in Los Angeles in 1967, the Herald-Examiner said Wednesday.

The AFL, the story said, will place the franchise in Dodger Stadium or the new Anaheim stadium, depending on financial arrangements.

Kansas City Chiefs owner Lamar Hunt will get first chance to move his club to the West Coast, the story continued, but if Hunt doesn't wish to move, the league will probably place an expansion team here.

Hunt, contacted at his home in Dallas, said he hadn't been approached by Anaheim about moving the club, and has no interest in moving.

"I don't know anything about the report," said Hunt. He is a member of the AFL Expansion Committee and toured the Anaheim Stadium when the Chiefs played in San Diego earlier this season.

"The American Football League is interested in the Los Angeles and Anaheim area as an expansion city," Hunt said, "but not as a place to move the Chiefs. People have talked to me about moving the club, but I have no interest in moving."

Marine Reserves Outline Openings

STEUBENVILLE — The Marine Corps Reserve is looking for men who are interested in fulfilling their military obligation with the minimum amount of interruption to their education or job.

At present, there are unlimited openings with the Marine Reserve Unit here.

With the Reserve 120 - day delay program now in effect, this means you can enlist now and choose your time for departure. As a member of the Marine Corps Reserve you will go on active duty for training for a period of five months and then return home and serve the balance of obligated service in Steubenville as a member of Co. B, 12th Infantry Battalion. You will be assured of receiving five months of physical and mental training; of receiving the very best that Uncle Sam can offer, and the pride of serving as "one of the finest, a United States Marine," recruiting officials point out.

More information on the program may be obtained from the Marine Reserve recruiter by calling 264-3181 or by coming in to the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center at Cherry Ave. and Pico St. in Steubenville.

Jet Quarterbacks To Use Loudspeakers For Signals

NEW YORK (AP) — Your quarterback's name is Joe Namath. He has a strong arm, a quick mind and a $400,000 price tag. But he's having trouble. What do you do?

Why, you get him a loudspeaker.

That, of course, won't solve all of the problems facing Namath and the New York Jets' other quarterback, Mike Taliaferro, but according to Coach Weeb Ewbank, giving his signal-callers an amplifying system certainly will prove an advantage on the road.

Ewbank talked about the problem Wednesday as he prepared to take the Jets on the road. The Jets, who will be at Kansas City, also have a 12-game losing streak away from home.

"Our quarterbacks find it exceedingly hard to use the check-offs (changing the play at the line of scrimmage), after they leave the huddle when they're on the road," Ewbank explained. "The noise of the home club does interfere with the calls at the line of scrimmage."

But Ewbank figures he may be close to licking that problem.

"There's a guy who has been working on a special helmet for our quarterbacks," said Ewbank. "It's being equipped with a microphone in the chin strap area and two amplifiers that protrude a bit out of each side of the helmet.

"His first model was a bit heavy, with the batteries, but he's got the thing pretty well down pat now, with very small batteries, and not so much protrusion with the amplifiers. Our quarterbacks should be using this one very soon now."

Ewbank wouldn't say when the Jets would unveil the system, which would act as a loudspeaker for the quarterback.

Jet Quarterbacks To Use Loudspeakers For Signals

NEW YORK (AP) — Your quarterback's name is Joe Namath. He has a strong arm, a quick mind and a $400,000 price tag. But he's having trouble. What do you do?

Why, you get him a loudspeaker.

That, of course, won't solve all of the problems facing Namath and the New York Jets' other quarterback, Mike Taliaferro, but according to Coach Weeb Ewbank, giving his signal-callers an amplifying system certainly will prove an advantage on the road.

Ewbank talked about the problem Wednesday as he prepared to take the Jets on the road. The Jets, who will be at Kansas City, also have a 12-game losing streak away from home.

"Our quarterbacks find it exceedingly hard to use the check-offs (changing the play at the line of scrimmage), after they leave the huddle when they're on the road," Ewbank explained. "The noise of the home club does interfere with the calls at the line of scrimmage."

But Ewbank figures he may be close to licking that problem.

"There's a guy who has been working on a special helmet for our quarterbacks," said Ewbank. "It's being equipped with a microphone in the chin strap area and two amplifiers that protrude a bit out of each side of the helmet.

"His first model was a bit heavy, with the batteries, but he's got the thing pretty well down pat now, with very small batteries, and not so much protrusion with the amplifiers. Our quarterbacks should be using this one very soon now."

Ewbank wouldn't say when the Jets would unveil the system, which would act as a loudspeaker for the quarterback.

Experimental Grapes Set For Drought Area

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The government has announced a project to grow grapes in the Sao Francisco River Valley, which cuts a green swath through the northeastern "drought polygon."

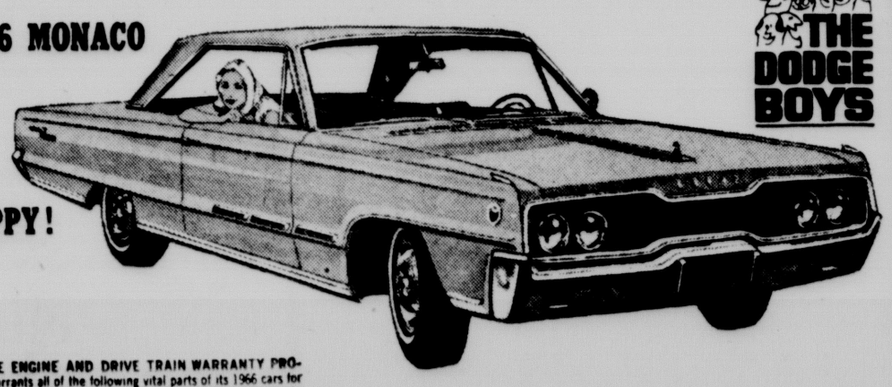
THE DODGE BOYS



*HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR, 50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1966 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings.
REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Junior Editors Quiz on CANADIAN MOUNTIES

QUESTION: Do the Royal Canadian Mounted Police still use horses?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: In 1869, the Canadian government took over large areas of the great unsettled Canadian Northwest. This wild region lured settlers because of its mining, fishing and fur trade. It is said that in this area almost every known mineral is present. But it was dangerous bountry in the old days, for various lawless bands had made it their headquarters. To protect the decent people who wanted to settle in the Northwest Territories, the Mounted Police was organized in 1873. This body of fine men quickly became famous for their reliability and devotion to duty. Liquor smuggling was stamped out, as was the trade in stolen horses and cattle. From this beginning the "Mounties" were used to uphold law and order in all parts of Canada except Ontario and Quebec. They patrol thousands of miles of wild country and have a splendid record of keeping crime under control. The horse, nowadays, has been largely superseded by the faster patrol car; yet the riding tradition of the Mounties remains, as they still put on riding exhibitions for ceremonial occasions. The Mounties also use various types of ships, boats and airplanes in their far-flung activities.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the Mounties' costume in the picture. The tunic is brilliant scarlet with hat, gloves, revolver, holster and boots brown. There is a bright yellow stripe down the side of the breeches, and the edge of the saddle blanket is also bright yellow.
